MAN IS SEIZED AS SUSPECT IN $4,000 HOLDUP

E. E. Davis, 21, Says He Owns Bandit Car, Police Claim.

TWO OTHERS SOUGHT IN BANK FUND THEFT

Gilbert Hyatt, Runner, Is Kidnaped and Robbed in Rock Creek.

AUTO TAG FURNISHES INVESTIGATION CLEW

Victim Says Robbers Told Him They Passed Up $14,000 Haul.

One arrest has been made and a lookout has been posted for two other men in connection with the holdup and robbery of $4,000 from Gilbert Hyatt, a messenger boy for the Mount Vernon Savings Bank, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

The man under arrest is Edward Stanley Davis, 21 years old, of Thirtieth street between Bladensburg road and Franklin street northeast. He is being held for questioning at the Sixth Precinct Station. He is understood to have told police that he loaned his automobile, suspected of having been used by the bandits, to some friends.

The lookout has been broadcast for two youths who are said by police to match descriptions given them by Hyatt as the men in the bandit car.

Headquarters Detectives Howard Ogle and Hugh Brodie arrested Davis after tracing a car, reported to belong to the youth. The car was traced through a license number given by Hyatt.

Victim Is Confused.

Hyatt gave detectives three numbers. Excited by the hold-up, he contradicted himself when investigators asked him if he was sure about the numbers. Of three numbers given by the boy, two were discarded as improbable clues while the third was seized upon as a "hot lead."

The car under suspicion is a roadster. Containing three men, the machine drew up alongside Hyatt on M street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest while the messenger boy was on his way to the Union Cooperative Insurance Co., a half block away. Drawing a pistol, one of the men forced Hyatt into the car.

The car, according to the story given police by Hyatt, went out Sixteenth street, down Sherrill Drive into Rock Creek Park, opposite Walter Reed Hospital.

Robbery Occurs in Park.

The robbery took place in the park. After taking the satchel of money, the men ordered Hyatt to walk into the woods, police were told by the boy. Hyatt was able to give descriptions of two of the men, but was vague about the third, due to the fact

Martial Law Ends; Juarez Is Normal

New Officials Take Office in Mexican City After Election Row.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Martial law was lifted in the Mexican border city of Juarez today after a new mayor, aldermen and other city officials had been inducted into office to succeed the regime relieved of duty yesterday.

With the swearing in of the new officials former Mayor Gustavo Flores and members of his administration, arrested preliminary to an investigation of alleged election irregularities, were released from custody.

Complaint had been made to Acting Gov. Escobar, of the state of Chihuahua, by partisans of Manuel Prieto, unsuccessful candidate for governor in the July 20 election, that Juarez city officials interfered with voting there.

Two persons were killed and a number wounded in Juarez on election day.

Deputy Sheriff Kidnaped And Beaten by Five Men

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Deputy Sheriff Parlin Hill, of Union County, was in a hospital here today suffering from bruises and cuts, which he said were inflicted last night by five masked men who kidnaped him.

He said the men grabbed him after calling him out of his home and beat him about the face with their pistols and fists and then took him to a lonely spot and threatened his life. The officer said he escaped and fled into a woods while bullets whizzed by him. He did not say why he was kidnaped.

MISS NANCY HOPKINS.

WASHINGTON MISS IN GIRLS' AIR DERBY

Nancy Hopkins Will Enter Contest to Start Here on August 22.

HAS FLOWN 140 HOURS

Washington yesterday zoomed squarely into the first Eastern "Powder Puff" airplane derby with the announcement of Miss Nancy Hopkins that she intends entering the cross-country event for women only which will be held in connection with the national air races at Chicago this month. The derby is to start from Washington Airport August 22, fly south and west to Atlanta, Ga., and the Mississippi Valley, and thence north to Chicago, where it will end about August 28.

Accompanied by Phoebe Omlie and Blanche Wilcox Noyes, women fliers who arrived at Hoover Field yesterday, Miss Hopkins called on President Hoover to deliver a floral invitation to attend the National Air Races in Chicago, August 23 to September 1.

Not only is Miss Hopkins a native of Washington, but she received her pilot training here, winning her private pilot's license at Hoover Field. Her father, Dr. Alfred F. Hopkins, lives at 1910 K street northwest, where she passed last night after flying here from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, with her employer, Robert E. Gross, president of the Viking Flying Boat Co., of New Haven, Conn., where she is employed in the sales department.

Before learning to fly, Miss Hopkins, who is now 21 years old, was graduated from Central High School here. While she was taking her flying instruction, she entered The Washington Post's Mary Pickford popularity contest, finishing among the runners-up. Meanwhile, she gained her private license and went on to New York, where she added to her flying time and earned the limited commercial license, which she now holds. She has only 60 hours more of solo flying time before she will be eligible for a transport license, 140 hours having been already credited to her.

In the Eastern Derby, which is confined to light planes, Miss Hopkins expects to fly a Kitty Hawk biplane, equipped with a 100-horsepower engine. Only three other probable entrants in the event have so far been brought to light here.

They are Phoebe Omlie, Mae Hizlip and the diminutive Vera Dawn

R-100 IN PERIL DURING STORM, CREW CLAIMS

Airship, on Nose, Swept Skyward for 2,500 Feet by Wind.

OFFICERS MINIMIZE DANGERS TO VESSEL

Accident Same as Craft Neared Montreal After Crossing Ocean.

LARGE HOLE RIPPED IN FLIMSY COVERING

(Picture on Page Eight.)

St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The British dirigible R-100, a sailor home safe from the sea, swung gently at her mooring mast tonight, at the end of her 3,500 miles of epic voyage that almost ended in disaster.

Speeding down the St. Lawrence River valley last night, just 150 miles from St. Hubert's mast and safety, the mighty air voyager was struck by a "cyclonic current" that hurled it 2,500 feet straight upward and tore a great hole in her fragile armor.

The damage was repaired and the big ship proceeded slowly into Montreal, anchoring at her mast at 4:38 a. m., just 78 hours and 51 minutes after taking off from Cardington, England, on her flight to the New World.

Crew Describes Peril.

Officers, told that they were talking for publication, made light of the danger encountered. The men of the crew, not so constrained, spoke more freely.

Their story was one to make the heart quicken with thanksgiving after the peril that was past, a peril that struck with the speed and ferocity of a serpent.

Just the other side of Quebec, they said, a strong upcurrent of cyclonic force caught the R-100 and hurled it, practically standing on its nose, for almost 2,500 feet in less than half a minute.

It was during that terrific moment, when all aboard "just crossed their fingers and waited," that a strip of fabric about 15 by 6 feet was ripped from the port fin, opening a hole as big as a barn door into the great envelope, exposing the intricate interior of the largest airship ever built to the fury of the storm.

Officers Minimize Dangers.

In radio reports from the ship itself and in interviews after the dirigible was moored today, officers minimized the dangers that had been encountered. They said the peril had never been critical and that repairs effected in midair quickly rendered the damage of negligible importance.

But the men scoffed at the suggestion that there had been no serious danger and pointed for evidence to the rude patch that but partially closed the jagged opening and almost covered the fluttering tatters of the airship's torn "skin."

They said that from late afternoon until midnight, Assistant Coxswains G. E. Long and L. A. Moncrieff, with a crew of sixteen men, including every rigger aboard, worked out on the stripped skeleton of the damaged fin, clinging to the metal frame above the waters of the St. Lawrence, and finally stopped the largest opening with a patch of spare fabric.

Even then not all the holes were covered and today, as the great ship swung easily at the great mooring mast in the soft sunshine, hundreds

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Some people are much afraid of doing something for which they are not paid. That is the attitude of class and caste which leads to fossilization or decay. It represents the foreign system of servants, not the American system of partners in industry. The person who adopts it may possibly hold his place but the chance of promotion has gone and the chance of demotion and discharge has come. It is the most certain road to unemployment. Those who do only what they are paid for will never be paid very much.

The work of the world can not be done on any such basis. No business can be a success in which that system is fostered. Whenever employes, whether in the office or in the shop, begin that practice they are bound for part time and a shutdown. There is no market for that method of production.

Success comes to people who are not considering the narrow question of what they are paid for but the broad question of what they can do to be helpful. It is that attitude which leads to the promotion of the individual, the profit of the business, and the prosperity of the Nation.

RUSSIAN PULPWOOD EMBARGO IS LIFTED

Lowman Orders Admission of 79 Shiploads Now Awaiting Entry.

FIRMS' PROTESTS WIN

(Associated Press.)

The ban on Russian pulpwood imposed by the Treasury a week ago was lifted last night by Assistant Secretary Lowman, who issued orders to collectors of customs to admit to this country 79 shiploads of the product.

The pulpwood from Archangel was barred under a section of the tariff act which prohibits the importation of goods, merchandise or material produced in a foreign country in whole or part by convict labor. The embargo was laid down when the Treasury received information that convicts had been used in loading the lumber. Mr. Lowman said in a statement last night the evidence had not been found sufficient to establish that the pulpwood was produced by convict labor.

The Amtorg Trading Corporation, official Russian commercial organization, sold $4,500,000 worth of pulpwood to the International Paper Co., the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. and the Racquett River Paper Co., all of whom, together with ship owners and charterers, protested against the embargo.

The chief fight against the embargo was carried on by Kenneth Gardner, counsel for the Spanish American lines, who had chartered 34 vessels to carry pulpwood from Archangel to this country.

At a hearing yesterday officials of the Amtorg, together with the International Paper Co. and the steamship lines, testified convict labor was not used in production of the pulpwood, which was cut last winter, and urged an immediate decision. Officials of the paper companies said their plants would have to close down unless they received it or could replace it from other sources.

Six ships loaded with pulpwood have arrived in this country and Canada, while eleven are en route and others already have been loaded.

Following a luncheon tomorrow, the candidates will be viewed in floats. They may be attired in either sport frocks or afternoon clothes. A ball will be held in the evening.

WIFE OF JOHNSON, DIAMOND ACE, DIES

Game in New York Deferred; President and First Lady Send Wreath.

PLAYER PRESENT AT END

Comforted by the promise that her home would not be broken up, Mrs. Walter Johnson died in Georgetown University Hospital early yesterday morning, after an illness of three days. Baseball's greatest product was at her bedside, which he refused to leave in spite of the pleas of friends.

Aware that the end was near, Mrs. Johnson's last thoughts were of her five children and the home to which she devoted her later life. The "Big Train" promised her that he would keep the children with him and shortly after she died, her hand in the clasp of the man to whose success she materially contributed.

Worn and haggard from his vigil, and the latest link in a tragic chain of misfortune, Walter sought seclusion in his Alta Vista home yesterday. About the attractive house, his four smaller children played happily, unaware of their mother's passing. Only Walter, jr., 15 years old, shared his father's secret. Together they attempted to carry on, with forced smiles and tightened lips.

Messages of condolence flooded the home immediately after the news of Mrs. Johnson's death. President and Mrs. Hoover sent a large wreath, and members of the team, who idolized their leader's wife, came to give silent sympathy.

Twenty-three years ago today Johnson pitched his first game for the Nats, in a contest with the Detroit Tigers. On August 2, 1917, he celebrated his tenth anniversary with the Washington Club by defeating the Tigers, but there will be no celebration of his twenty-third anniversary.

Johnson was in uniform Thursday for the game with Philadelphia when a telephone call came from Georgetown Hospital. He left the park hurriedly for her bedside, where physicians informed him that his wife's condition was critical. Heat exhaustion induced by a recent automobile trip from her home in Coffeyville, Kans., had depleted her strength, abetted by an old attack of pleurisy. Attending physicians told the Nat leader that a long rest probably would restore her to health, but a turn for the worst developed late last night, and she died at 4:30 p. m.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Monday, from the Alta Vista residence, interment following in Rockville Cemetery. Monday's scheduled game at New York was postponed, following a long distance telephone conversation between Clark Griffith and officials of the New York team.

Mrs. Johnson, who was 36 years old, was the daughter of former Representative Edwin Roberts, of Nevada. She met the famous fire-ball hurler in Washington, where she came to live with her father. On June 24, 1914, they were married.

Mrs. Johnson's love for baseball, and the encouragement that she gave her husband in his chosen work have had much to do with the success he

MARTIAL LAW IN HANKOW AS REDS ADVANCE

"Chicago of China" Felt to Be Objective of Communists.

PILLAGING DESCRIBED BY U. S. MISSIONARY

Rev. W. H. Lingle Boards Gunboat Palos as Changsha Burns.

AMERICAN MINISTER HELPS COUNTRYMEN

Nanking Government Told It Must Answer for Damage Done.

Hankow, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Martial law was declared in Hankow today and troops began strengthening and erecting defenses against an anticipated Communist attack, while Chinese poured into the foreign concession for safety.

Students of the training division were pressed into service. The populace, under a curfew ruling, must be off the streets by midnight.

Hankow, known as "the Chicago of China," because of its size, location and industrial importance, is, with its sister cities of Wuchang and Hanyang, the presumed objective of the Communists' campaign that has spread over a wide area in the upper Yangtse River region. To the north 35 miles the Reds have been blowing up bridges en route here.

Reds Rule Changsha.

Meanwhile, Communists were reported still in control of Changsha, capital of Hunan province, where they have looted, burned and despoiled for several days, driving out virtually all foreigners and clashing with the American gunboat Palos. Nationalist reports, unconfirmed from other sources, said a government gunboat shelled Changsha and drove out the invaders.

The radicals were said to have kidnaped and held for ransom 300 of the wealthiest Chinese residents of Changsha and to have dragged from hiding and executed 60 officers of provincial troops.

In Hankow it was learned that Communists had reached Siaokan, 25 miles north, and destroyed 7 miles of tracks of the Peiping-Hankow Railway. West of Hankow they had captured Yokiakow, 70 miles up the Han River and were reported looting property and executing wealthier residents.

Other Cities Attacked.

Shanghai, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Spread by the torch applied recently to Changsha, Communism reared its red head today in Hankow, Kiukiang, Kuling and Shanghai, with agitation especially directed against foreigners.

Precautions were taken to prevent repetition of the outrage which destroyed much property of foreigners and forced them to flee to their warships at Changsha when the Hunan province capital was looted and burned, with assassination of hundreds of natives.

From the famous summer mountain resort, Kuling, and nearby Kiukiang came disturbing information that consular officials had notified their countrymen to leave and evacuation was proceeding. Communists, after ravaging Kiangsi province many months, were said to be threatening Kuling and Kiukiang.

Student Agitators Active.

Forewarned of a demonstration by 500 student agitators within the foreign settlement at Shanghai, foreign police last night, using clubs, repulsed the Reds and arrested fifty. The adjacent French concession

CAPITAL TRIAL TO BE FOUGHT BY CAMPBELL

Attorney for Suspect in Murder Gets Writ of Habeas Corpus.

HEARING SCHEDULED ON MONDAY MORNING

JURISDICTION CLAIM BASED ON WITNESSES

Shots Heard as Baker Auto Left Seventeenth and B, They Say.

The removal of Herbert M. Campbell to the District to stand trial for the murder of Mary E. Baker will be fought to the last ditch by the suspect's attorney, Charles H. Smith, of Alexandria.

Mr. Smith asserted this intention last night in outlining his plans for the legal battle he intends to wage before permitting his client's removal from Arlington County.

Legal maneuvers were executed yesterday by the defense and the prosecution in their fight for the possession of the suspect. Mr. Smith obtained a writ of habeas corpus, returnable on Monday morning. Assistant United States District Attorney William H. Collins swore out a Federal warrant charging Campbell with the murder of the Navy Department clerk.

Judge McCarthy to Preside.

This process will be sent today to J. Barton Phillips, United States commissioner for the Eastern District of Virginia. Commissioner Phillips will issue another warrant for service by a United States deputy marshal.

Indications are that Monday morning at 9:30 will be the zero hour in the legal war for possession of the suspect. Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of Arlington County, will preside at the habeas corpus hearing.

Plans of the prosecution, it was learned, are to bring the prisoner into court, where Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth will drop the murder warrant issued in Arlington County for the prisoner's arrest. At this juncture a United States deputy marshal will present the Federal warrant and will arrest Campbell. Then the scene of the conflict will be removed to the court of United States Commissioner Phillips in Alexandria.

Long Conference Held.

Mr. Gloth, Mr. Collins and Lieut. Edward J. Kelly held a prolonged conference yesterday in the United States district attorney's office, after which Lieut. Kelly swore to the affidavit which was used by Mr. Collins in obtaining the Federal warrant.

In the event that Campbell is brought to this jurisdiction, it is unlikely that the case will be presented to the grand jury before two weeks. Col. Calvin H. Goddard will require several days to assemble his prints of the fatal bullets and the test bullets fired from Campbell's gun, which he judged as identical to those found in the slain girl's body.

In addition to this United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover is on vacation and it may require a few weeks before he obtains sanction to bring Col. Goddard to this city to testify before a grand jury as to his findings.

Smith Presents Plea.

While the prosecution was devising its case, Defense Attorney Smith appeared before Circuit Judge McCarthy and presented the following petition for a writ of habeas corpus:

"To Judge Walter T. McCarthy:

"Your petitioner, Herbert M. Campbell, respectfully shows that he is unlawfully imprisoned, detained, confined and restrained of his liberty by Howard B. Fields, sheriff of Arlington

HOOVER NAMES UNIT FOR HOME-BUILDING

Commission Will Take Up High Costs of Second-Mortgage Deeds.

PRIVATE FUND PLEDGED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Convinced by now that criticism by the Democrats of his appointment of commissions is just their mean way, President Hoover yesterday announced another one, this time to help him in the attainment of the universal happiness goal which he set in his nomination acceptance address in 1928.

The commission, to be supported by private funds, is to be known as the Home Building and Home Ownership Commission, designed to put the real estate industry on its feet.

Particular attention is to be given to high charges attending second mortgages and to cost of homes in an effort to work out an easier financial situation, something akin perhaps to that behind the automobile industry.

"The present depression," the President said, "has given emphasis to the fact that the credit system in home building is not as soundly organized as other branches of credit."

The President is of the opinion that home building, because of its defective financial system, has not held its own in the present depression as well as other industries.

"There have been months during this depression," he said, "when shortage of capital available for home building purposes has been so acute that this branch of construction has fallen off greatly, while other forms of credit have been available throughout the depression."

Second mortgage costs with attendant charges have risen in many cities, he said, to between 20 and 25 per cent, which stifles home building.

The commission is to be headed by Secretary of Commerce Lamont, with John M. Gries, head of the division of building and housing in the department, serving as executive secretary. The heads of nineteen or more interested organizations will be asked to serve on a planning committee under which will be many other committees.

It is not the plan to bring forth legislation, although steps looking toward uniform mortgage laws among the States will probably be evolved.

The President is believed to have long looked upon the home building

Artificial 'Lung' Saves Men In Fume-Filled Submarine

Officer and Trio of Film Employes Rescued From Death.

New London, Conn., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The Navy's recently perfected artificial "lung" today was credited with having saved the life of its coinventor, Lieut. Charles B. Momsen, U. S. N., and three motion-picture men who were trapped this afternoon in a gas-filled compartment of the submerged submarine S-4.

It was the first time the "lung," which has been the subject of numerous tests lately, had been called upon for emergency duty.

The three newsreel men, Claud B. Collings, director; John Bockhorst, cameraman, and Arthur Fernandez, in charge of sound apparatus, went out in the S-4 off the submarine base here this afternoon with Lieut. Momsen to take moving pictures of a test escape of ten men through an

Dry Chief Says New Policy Will Aid Court Congestion

Woodcock Says Docket Should Be Relieved of Petty Cases.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition Director Amos W. W Woodcock expects the new enforcement policy of concentrating upon large-scale violators of dry laws to contribute incidentally to relief of congestion in Federal courts.

This, he said yesterday, should come about through elimination of the flood of minor cases that have been clogging dockets. Even with an increased staff of agents, he predicted fewer cases would be brought into court.

Cases that are prosecuted, however, he pointed out, may be expected to be of importance and a step in the bureau's program of shutting off the supply of illicit liquor at its source.

The line of demarcation between petty and major offenses is to be

"HERBERT M. CAMPBELL."

Jurisdiction Based on Shots.

Judge McCarthy's order directing the presentation of the prisoner will be served upon Sheriff Howard B. Fields and Deputy Sheriff Harry L. Woodyard by Coroner H. B. Swain.

Evidence upon which authorities claim to have established the jurisdiction of the crime is the statements of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Wood and Francis Rice that they heard muffled shots as Miss Baker's automobile proceeded north on Seventeenth street. They had previously witnessed an assault upon her while in her automobile parked in the Ellipse.

All the material evidence in the murder case will be brought from Arlington County to the District. It consists of Miss Baker's personal effects, several pieces of cheap jewelry, a book, a man's scarf and a pair of pigskin gloves, which Campbell at first identified as his and now repudiates.

Case Centers on Ballistics.

The pivotal point in the case against Campbell is Col. Goddard's identification of Campbell's pistol as the murder gun. Mr. Collins says that such evidence as Col. Goddard will offer before the grand jury is construed as substantive in law.

Testimony of ballistics experts has been recognized in local courts, he says, pointing to Col. Goddard's testimony here several years ago against John E. Taylor, a former policeman, who was convicted on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Mr. Smith contends that ballistics testimony is not accepted as direct evidence but is used merely in corroboration of other testimony.

Campbell was again requestioned early yesterday in the Arlington County Jail. At the conclusion, Mr. Gloth said: "He still sticks to his original story."

Construction of the railroad which will carry materials for building the $165,000,000 Boulder Canyon Dam project, was contracted for yesterday by the Department of the Interior and will begin at once.

Acting Secretary Dixon signed a contract with the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad, a subsidiary of the Union Pacific, for 30 miles of track from its main line near Las Vegas, Nev., to the dam site. FARM BOARD HELPS TOBACCO PLANTERS

STATE MARKETING SEEN

(Associated Press.)

While Department of Justice agents hurried to Georgia last night to investigate charges of collusion to beat down prices of bright leaf tobacco, the Farm Board prepared to investigate every possible chance to assits growers under the agricultural marketing act.

By direction of Vice Chairman Stone, representing tobacco on the board, Dr. F. B. Bomberger, chief of the board's field representatives, arranged to be in Atlanta on Monday to investigate the possibility of operating through the Georgia State bureau of markets, as suggested by Eugene Talmadge, State commissioner of agriculture.

Previously Mr. Stone had cited the provision of the agricultural marketing act specifying that governmental aid be extended to farmers only through cooperatives which are owned and controlled by farmers. He said there were no such cooperatives in the distressed Georgia tobacco region.

The situation in Georgia, Mr. Stone said, is almost an exact reproduction of conditions in the Kentucky burley tobacco belt in 1920. Georgia growers do not have their tobacco centrally controlled, he added, and individual farmers, needing money, can not get an advance from a cooperative, but have to sell at whatever prices buyers are willing to pay.

As a result Georgia tobacco has no bargaining power, can not be processed to wait out the market or even feed into the market accorded to grades commanding better prices.

Black Hooded Bandits Rob Motorist by Ruse

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Four black-hooded highwaymen, one of whom had stretched himself in the street as if lifeless until William Embrey stopped his automobile to investigate, early today robbed Embrey of $58 and drove off in his car.

An hour later they, or others, tried the same trick on another street, but this time with a dummy. But police, tipped off, were following the prospective victim, a voluntary decoy, and the bandits fled with pistol bullets whistling about them.

RED ANTIWAR DAY TRANQUIL IN EUROPE

PARADES HELD IN RUSSIA

Paris, Aug. 1 (A. P.).—A widely advertised Communist "International Antiwar Day," commemorating the sixteenth anniversary of mobilization for the World War, today passed off without disorders in Europe. In most countries a general roundup of Communist leaders was made in anticipation of trouble.

Only in Moscow and other Russian cities were there important demonstrations. Communist demonstrators paraded the streets there, carrying banners with antimilitaristic slogans, and bearing in triumph gas masks and other defensive weapons against warfare.

At Moscow a score of airplanes dropped peace pamphlets. The Russian Volunteer Society for Aerial and Chemical Defense gave the Red army 51 modern Russian-built military airplanes, for which the funds were contributed by workers throughout the Soviet Union.

Police in Planes at Paris.

In Paris, it was police airplanes that swooped lazily over the city, on the lookout for undue gatherings in working class quarters. Not a single serious incident was reported.

Large antiwar manifestations failed to materialize, and the Communists did not attempt to parade. Approximately 30 arrests were made, mostly for distribution of inflammatory pamphlets.

Preventative arrests likewise were effective in Hungary and Czechoslovakia. Strong forces of police were mobilized at Budapest and Prague, but remained idle throughout the day.

Small Meetings in Vienna.

Dispatches from Vienna reported that Austrian Communists had held small demonstrations, which passed off peaceably. The rest of the country also was tranquil.

Early this evening no disorders had been reported from Germany, which usually is the scene of clashes on such occasions.

Barring a large number of police, patrolling the streets, and republican guards posted at strategical points, Paris presented an everyday appearance, with taxicab and other services continuing undisturbed.

The authorities said that about 30,000 workers in the north of France, striking in protest against the social insurance law, had not attempted to demonstrate.

The annual McLean Carnival will open this afternoon with all of the usual attractions and entertainments and will close next Saturday night. During next week the carnival grounds will open at 7 o'clock in the evening and will not close until midnight. Both Saturday programs are scheduled to open at noon.

The program for today calls for a tug-of-war between the McLean team and their old rivals, the Forestville team. It is expected that the baby show will be the most interesting feature of this afternoon. Taking warning from the clamor of the previous year's celebration the committee has constructed an extra large Bingo stand to accommodate the crowds.

The hook-up contest which will be conducted by the fire department is attracting wide attention. The contest will be staged at 4 p. m. on the last day of the carnival, and it is expected will be participated in by many of the nearby volunteer fire departments. Invitations have been extended to more than 25 departments of nearby Virginia and Maryland. A cup, to le known as the "John Wheat McLean Cup" will be awarded as a trophy to the winners. It is planned to make this contest an annual affair.

A new Ford sedan will be given away on the last day of the carnival.

The general committee in charge of the carnival this year is a joint committee, made up of members from the school and civic league and from the fire department. Members of this committee are J. A. Beattie, chairman; Harry R. Farver, secretary, and John Payne, E. D. Sanders, John Preston, J. C. Storm and A. B. Dailey. Capt. Haywood Durrer, of the Fairfax County road police, calls the attention of the motorists of the county to the fact that a "Stop!" sign has been erected by the county highway department at the junction of the Fort Hunt road and the Washington-Richmond highway, just south of Hunting Creek. Capt. Durrer asks that all persons using this road cooperate with his department by coming to a stop before leaving the Fort Hunt road. The captain, or one of his men, will be stationed at the junction for a few days to instruct and warn the motorists, but after a reasonable length of time, the captain states, he will instruct his men to begin to make arrests. This sign was erected on the Fort Hunt road by the county highway department after a thorough investigation covering a long period of time. The survey shows that a great number of accidents and near accidents occur at this point every year, and it is hoped that these now will be averted.

Beyer Hayden, of Falls Church, was arrested yesterday morning by Town Sergeant Walter Mitchell in East Falls Church, after several persons had complained of his reckless driving. The flames have covered approximately 1,000 acres in the Government preserve, destroying second growth timber. At least as much privately owned timber also has been burned.

Somerset Area Fire Burns for Two Weeks

Special to The Washington Post.

Grantsville, Md., Aug. 1.—One of the most stubborn fires in the Somerset area is burning over a 5-mile front between Ashtola and Ogletown with more than 200 men trying to subdue it.

The fire has been increasing for two weeks and it is thought nothing but rain will finally subdue it. More than 3,000 acres of timberland have already been destroyed. Farm houses have been saved by wide areas of plowed ground which have acted as a barrier against the advance of ground fires. The long drought has added greatly to the fire hazard.

The money stolen consisted of $4,000 in cash. The balance was in checks and negotiable bonds. A cashier's check and one of the bonds was found in the satchel when it was picked up on Iowa avenue. The loss is covered by insurance.

Hyatt said that just before he was robbed he had drawn $14,000 from the Treasury, gone to his bank and emerged again with the pay roll. Hyatt said that the bandits told him that they had seen him leave the Treasury and that they had decided he was carrying too much money to make a hold-up "wise" at that time.

BAYLES FINISHES SECOND

Detroit, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—A former Army flier, Lee Gehlbach, led ten contestants in the all-American air derby across the finish line at the Detroit City Airport today, averaging 127.1 miles an hour over the 5,541-mile course to win an award of $15,000.

Setting out from Detroit July 21, Gehlbach, flying for a group of Little Rock, Ark., business men, led the derby contestants on almost every lap from Detroti to New York, sweeping down to Houston, Tex., across to Los Angeles, and back over the mountains and across the Middle West to Detroit again. Flying a special command airplane, he used an elapsed time of 43 hours 35 minutes and 30 seconds, four hours less than Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass., second place winner. Bayles' time was 47 hours 36 minutes and 8 seconds, an average of 116.4 miles an hour over the gruelling route.

Cleveland Pilot Third.

Third place went to Charles Meyers, Cleveland pilot, who finished with an average of 107.3 miles an hour, for a total elapsed time of 51 hours 34 minutes and 31 seconds. Bayles will receive $7,000 and Meyers $3,000, second and third place awards.

Wheeling his plane across the finish line and into the airport hangar, Gehlbach found his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Gehlbach, of Besson, Ill., awaiting him and he received a telegram of congratulation signed by 556 Little Rock residents. He said the race was a "hard grind" and he was "glad it was over."

Gehlbach led the first arrivals on the final lap from Chicago to Detroit, arriving at 2:44 p. m., making the lap in one hour 42 minutes and 28 seconds. Bayles, second to arrive, came in at 2:58.

Ten of the eighteen contestants who left here twelve days ago completed the race. Those finishing back of third place will split an award of $5,000 offered by the Detroit Board of Commerce, each drawing $714.29 for remaining in the race until the finish. Eight contestants dropped out during the tour.

Herman Hamer, La Salle, Ill., led the pack at the start of the race, but fell behind and dropped out definitely when he was forced down near Des Moines, Iowa.

Others Who Finished.

Fourth to finish was Lieut. Henry Ogden, of Inglewood, Calif., whose elapsed time was 53:19:42, averaging 103.9 miles per hour. W. H. Cahill, Cleveland, finished in fifth place with time of 55:57:26, averaging 99 miles per hour.

Other survivors were Cecil Coffrin, Brooklyn, N. Y.; H. W. Holliday, Rapidan, Va.; Lawrence Brown, Los Angeles; Stanley Stanton, Blackwell, Okla., and J. R. Wedell, New Orleans.

Gehlbach, formerly a pilot with the fourth pursuit group at Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich., led in the list of winners of lap prizes offered at the various control points of the flight, swelling his total of prize money to more than $20,000.

The cash prizes totaling $25,000, offered by American Cirrus Engines, Inc., will be presented Saturday night at a banquet at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. This money will go to winners of the first three places in the race.

Fliers at Iceland On Vikings' Route

Germans Complete Hop From Orkneys; Plan Trip to America.

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Two young German airmen, following by air the sea routes from northern Europe to the New World once traversed by the "long ships" of the Vikings, landed near here at 7:30 p. m. today (3:30 p. m. E. S. T.), completing a flight from the Orkney Islands.

In their small single-motored monoplane the two aviators, Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, made their overwater jump in a little less than 12 hours. They left Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, at 9:40 a. m., British summer time (3:40 a. m. E. S. T.).

They landed on an improvised airfield near Kalladarnes, Reykjavik district. There was no regular field at Reykjavik, and the landing place had to be indicated by white cloths spread on the ground. From Iceland their plan is to continue to Greenland, Canada and ultimately the United States.

HOOVER FINDS CAMP FRESHENED BY RAIN

Drought, However, Not Alleviated and Water Is Used in Sparing Quantity.

G. O. P. LEADERS GUESTS

Orange, Va., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—For the first time in weeks, President Hoover today came to his Rapidan River Lodge to find the vegetation without a brown covering of dust.

The showers that have fallen during the last two days had freshened up the countryside about his camp, but had done little to alleviate the intense drought that has prevailed. It was still necessary to use water sparingly, as the reservoirs which supply the camp were running low, but plenty of drinking water was available from the spring. He found a chill resembling early autumn in the air.

The President and Mrs. Hoover took with them a smaller party of guests this week, all intimate friends. Although Albert F. Dawson, secretary of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, and William Hill, of Binghamton, N. Y., a Republican leader of that State, were members of the party, it as said no political significance was attached to the visit, and the week-end was to be one spent in rest.

In addition to the wives of Mr. Dawson and Mr. Hill, those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rickard, of New York; Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent and radio speaker; Mrs. William Brown Meloney, Sunday editor of the New York Herald Tribune; Mr. and Mrs. George Akerson, and Lawrence Richey, secretaries to the President, and Capt. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician.

BOY CAPTURES PAIR BY LEAPING ON CAR

Tears Feed Line From Motor of Illegal Hit-and-Run Auto Drivers.

COLLISION CASE PENDS

Two men are being held for investigation at the Ninth Precinct station in connection with a series of hit-and-run accidents on the Defense highway last night. They were captured as they crossed the District line by a youth who leaped on their car and, raising the hood, disconnected the fuel line after they had refused to halt.

The men are Albert C. Fisher, 45 years old, of Rhode Island avenue near First street northeast, and Noble M. Bailey, 46 years old, of Second street near U tsreet northeast. They are being held on a technical charge of investigation while one of the men whose car it is alleged they struck is swearing out a warrant in Maryland, charging them with failing to stop after a collision.

The men are alleged to have hit the auto of Leon H. Yarnall, of Philadelphia, Pa., about 7 miles from the District line. They stopped, but when Yarnall got out of his car they started their machine and drove away. He followed them, with Lenard Playfair, 18 years old, of Seabrook, Md.

As they crossed the District line, Playfair jumped on the running board of the fleeing car. After the men refused to stop, he raised the hood of the car, clining with one hand, and jerked the feed line from the vacuum tank. He held them until police arrived.

Yarnall said the car driven by the two men had struck three other cars near him before they crashed into his machine, but he did not know the names of the other drivers. He returned to Hyattsville last night to swear out the warrant for the two men.

Scion of Roger Williams Wins in Edison's Contest

Answers of Arthur O. Williams, jr., to Technical Questions Practically Perfect; District of Columbia Boy Fifth; Virginia Youth Gains Honorable Mention.

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Arthur O. Williams, jr., of East Providence, R. I., a descendant of Roger Williams, founder of Rhode Island, today embarked on a four-year career as a protege of Thomas A. Edison.

Young Williams, who was graduated from East Providence High School a few weeks ago as valedictorian of his class, was selected for this honor out of 49 boys, representing the 48 States and the District of Columbia, because he answered most satisfactorily a list of questions asked by Mr. Edison yesterday.

"Williams was so far ahead of all the rest that there could never be any doubt about it," Charles Edison, the inventor's son, said today. "His general information was surprising, and his answers to the technical questions were practically perfect. He is a remarkable boy."

The winner is entitled to a four-year course in any college he may wish to enter, with Mr. Edison paying all his expenses. His first impulse, after he learned that he had won, was to plan to enter Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where Wilber Huston, of Seattle, last year's winner, is a student. But, after thinking it over a little, he wasn't quite so sure.

"I want to study physics," he said, "and, of course, I'll want to go where I can get the very best instruction in that subject. I'll have to talk things over with my folks and with Mr. Edison before I decide. I'd planned to go to Brown, because it's in Providence, and I could live at home. But now, of course, I can go anywhere."

On advice of a representative of his benefactor, Arthur decided not to reveal his answers to any of Mr. Edison's questions, although Mr. Edison himself discussed them freely today and admitted that he hadn't thought out the answer to at least one of them.

Arthur's father, Arthur O. Williams is chief clerk of the Providence Gas Co., and he has one brother, younger than himself, named Van Zandt Williams.

Runners up in the contest were: Second, G. Dudley Mylchrest, Hartford, Conn.; third, Gordon K. Burns, Maplewood, N. J.; fourth, DeWolf Schatzel, Findlay, Ohio; fifth, Frederick C. Roop, Washington, D. C., and honorable mention, James H. Compton, jr., Wichita, Kans.; Walter Wrigley, Haverhill, Mass.; Royal S. Peake, Detroit, Mich.; Charles H. Cloukey, Lansdowne, Pa., and Gordon K. Carter, Charlottesville, Va.

14 Charities Will Receive $100,000,000 Wendel Fund

Mrs. Swope's Testament Specifies Such Disposition of Fortune on Death of Lone Surviving Descendant of New York Pioneer.

New York, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—A fortune in real estate estimated at upwards of $100,000,000 which three generations of Wendels have spent their lives amassing is to go to charity when a frail little old lady, last of the Wendel line, dies.

The will of Mrs. Rebecca Wendel Swope who died July 20 was filed today and provides for that disposition of the Wendel holdings after the death of her sister, Miss Ella, now 80.

Mrs. Swope at the request of her sisters had held all the Wendel properties in her name after the death of their brother John fifteen years ago. She was the only one that married.

Her personal property Mrs. Swope left to a nephew by marriage, George Stanley Shirk, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. She also made bequests of over $90,000 to relatives, servants and charities.

The residue after the death of Miss Ella, who was left the entire estate, most of it in trust, is to be divided among fourteen charities.

The Wendel family for years has been an enigma to the rest of New York. Living in an old brownstone mansion at Fifth avenue and Thirty-ninth street they resisted all progress lived in almost monastic simplicity and refused to sell any of their real estate holdings.

The family fortune was founded in the nineteenth century by John Wendel, a fur trader and contemporary of the first Astors. With the turn of the present century there remained only seven grandchildren, six sisters and one brother. The brother, who also bore the Christian name John, forbade his sisters to marry, saying no man was good enough for them.

One, Georgiana, tiring of the restricted life, fled to Europe. On her return her brother had her declared insane (a verdict later overruled), and committed to an asylum. She finally won her freedom and sued her brother for $50,000, but dropped the suit and returned to the old Fifth avenue home, there to live out her life behind closed shutters. She died in 1929.

One by one the sisters passed away, until now only Miss Ella is left. As did her sisters, she dresses only in black satin., cut in the mode of 40 years ago and sewed by her own hands. She never leaves the house, so far as is known, except to walk her aged fat poodle in the yard behind the house, known as the 'million-dollar dog run" because of the value of the property and the fact that it is used for no other purpose.

SENATORS TO STUDY BAY STATE ELECTION

Nye Told of Alleged Lavish Expenditures There and in Tennessee.

TO AIR NEBRASKA FIGHT

(Associated Press.)

Plans for further investigation of the Republican senatorial campaigns in Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Illinois this month were announced yesterday by Chairman Nye of the Senate campaign funds committee.

Hearings on the Pennsylvania primary, interrupted last May, will be resumed here next Tuesday. The committee will return to Nebraska about August 25 to make a further study of the situation created by the attempt of George W. Norris, a Broken Bow grocer, to oppose Senator George W. Norris in the primary on August 12. Additional information on the Illinois campaign is to be gathered on the same trip.

In addition, the Senate investigators will make an informal study of the Massachusetts and Tennessee campaigns to determine whether formal investigations there are justified.

Complaints of "lavish" expenditures in Massachusetts have been received from various individuals, including Conrad Crooker, general counsel for the Liberal Civics League, with whom members of the committee will confer on Monday. Mr. Crookers has complained that William M. Butler, a former senator, has expended more than a half million dollars in his campaign for the Republican senatorial nomination.

John R. Neal, of Knoxville, has advised the committee that there were indications ballot-box stuffing and excessive expenditures would be resorted to in Tennessee, and Senator Nye said yesterday he had promised to "give immediate attention" to the situation.

Discussing the Nebraska campaign, the committee chairman said he had made a personal inquiry there and found a situation so "intensely serious" that it "plainly merited the study of more members of the committee."

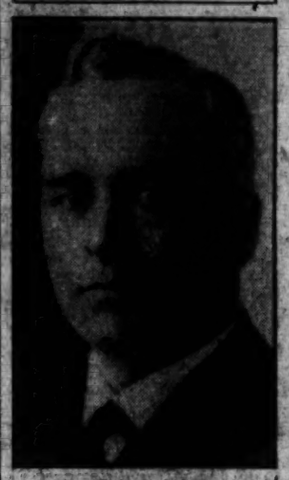
I. C. C. MEMBER



Underwood & Underwood.

CHARLES D. MAHAFFIE,
finance director of the Interstate Commerce Commission for many years, who yesterday was named a member of the commission, succeeding Thomas F. Woodlock, resigned.

MAHAFFIE CHOSEN MEMBER OF I. C. C.

Finance Director Named to Succeed T. F. Woodlock, Resigned.

RESIDENT HERE 25 YEARS

Charles D. Mahaffie, of Washington, for many years finance director of the Interstate Commerce Commission, yesterday was appointed a member of the commission to succeed Thomas F. Woodlock, resigned.

The change comes at the close of Mr. Woodlock's first term as commissioner. He had expressed a desire to return to private life, according to President Hoover, who announced the resignation and appointment of his successor. Mr. Woodlock, a former New York broker, was confirmed by the Senate only after a long battle, because he was charged with being too close to moneyed interests.

Native of Oklahoma.

Mr. Mahaffie, who resides at the La Salle Apartments, 1028 Connecticut avenue northwest, has been prominent in affairs of the commission for a number of years. A native of Oklahoma, Mr. Mahaffie has been a resident of the District for 26 years. In his position as finance director of the commission he has been in charge of railroad consolidations and construction and is considered an authority in railroad problems.

New York, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The Wall Street Journal announced today that Thomas F. Woodlock, who resigned today as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will join its staff as a contributing editor within a few weeks.

Mr. Woodlock will write a daily signed column in the paper, the announcement said, "and his viewpoint will also find frequent editorial expression."

Was Editor at One Time.

Mr. Woodlock joined the Wall Street Journal when he first came to the United States from England. After the death of Charles H. Dow in 1903 he acted as editor of the publication and in February, 1905, was formally appointed to that post.

Later he became a member of the New York Stock Exchange, continuing there until 1918, when he became associated with the America International Corporation.

He resigned in 1923 to write special articles and in January, 1925, he was appointed to the Interstate Commerce Commission by President Coolidge.

12 Miners Hurt By Powder Blast

Keg Explodes as Workers Clear Slate; Broken Wire Blamed.

Tiltonsville, Ohio, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Explosion of a keg of blasting powder injured twelve miners, one critically, in the Redbird Mine of the Warner Collieries Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, near here today.

The explosion occurred about a mile from entrance No. 8 of the drift mine, at a point where the workmen were starting the removal of debris that fell last Wednesday in a slide of slate and stone.

Seth Williams, pit boss, informed the company that the keg probably was ignited by a broken electric wire. All the injured were removed within a short time and taken to a Martins Ferry hospital.

Elvin McLaughlin, 35 years old, of Highland City, a suburb, was the most seriously injured. He suffered severe burns about the body and several fractures. Mine officials have started an investigation.

Man Hanged in Death Of 7-Year-Old Girl

San Quentin, Calif., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Thomas Lehew, Fort Bragg woodchopper, was hanged here today for the murder of 7-year-old Theresa Johnson several months ago.

He choked the child to death when he encountered her on her way home from school.

Vivian Duncan Bride Of Nils Asther, Actor

Reno, Nev., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Vivian Duncan, of the Duncan Sisters, of stage fame, was married here today to Nils Asther, moving picture actor of Hollywood.

Rosetta Duncan, the other member of singing and dancing team, was a witness. The principals gave their ages as "over 21" and their residences as Hollywood.

Husband Shoots Wife, Then Takes Own Life

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Mrs. Louise Wood, pretty 20-year-old matron, was shot to death late last night by her estranged husband, Ralph Woods, who later took his own life.

The shooting took place in front of the home of Mrs. Woods' mother, Mrs. Marjorie Hall, in a fashionable residential section here. Mrs. Hall said her daughter and Wood had been separated for about a week and that the daughter had filed suit for divorce yesterday.

SHEET TUBE CHIEFS ON WITNESS STAND

Knowledge of Bethlehem Bonus No Merger Bar, They Declare.

SYSTEM THOUGHT RIGHT

Youngstown, Ohio, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Chairman James A. Campbell and other officers of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. paraded over the witness stand in Common Pleas Court today to defend merger of their company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation in the face of every attack of the Cyrus S. Eaton interests.

Attorneys for the Eaton interests, who are asking injunction against the merger, learned from Campbell and Directors John W. Ford and Richard Garlick that knowledge of the bonuses which Bethlehem pays to its high officials would have made no difference in their attitude toward the deal.

The directors further testified they believed the Bethlehem bonus system justified.

"Did you not know that Grace took out about $1,500,000 in one year" Campbell was asked.

"I heard that indirectly through a story I saw attributed to Charles M. Schwab in the newspapers," he replied, "but I never believed it. I thought it was just one of Schwab's stories. I don't think it was too much, if you want to know that. I didn't make any investigation of the report."

The Eaton attorneys sought to show that Bethlehem concealed its bonus system from both the directors and stockholders of the Youngstown company, and that the merger never would have been approved if the bonuses had been made known.

Ford, who resigned as a director shortly after the merger was ratified by the stockholders, and Garlick both said they would have approved the deal regardless of the bonus. T. J. Bray, another director, is expected to take the stand Monday.

The Eaton forces are expected to finish their case with Eaton himself on the stand some time next week.

WOODCOCK STATES NEW POLICY BENEFIT

sharply drawn. Carrying a pint of liquor on the hip and transporting 10 gallons in an automobile, Mr. Woodcock said, are two altogether different things.

Mr. Woodcock spent the day today conferring with group leaders of corps of special agents assigned to do special investigating work and detect widespread conspiracies to violate liquor laws. Upon this group he is relying first of all in his campaign against big racketeers.

In addition, he spoke briefly to twelve supervisors of industrial alcohol permits who met here for conferences with James M. Doran, on questions of organization and administration.

Mr. Doran announced that reorganization of the bureau, which followed transfer of the enforcement unit to the Department of Justice a month ago, had been perfected without any interruption to business and that headquarters offices in twelve permissive districts were now functioning smoothly.

Yesterday's conferences brought to an end the series begun early in the week, which were intended to acquaint field directors of enforcement with their superior officers in Washington and give them first-hand accounts of the policies that have been adopted.

With the exception of institution of the proposed school for prohibition agents and gradual prosecution of the campaign for State cooperation; the new program of the reorganized enforcement bureau is now in full swing.

Mr. Woodcock is particularly anxious to develop the research branch of his bureau to the highest possible point of efficiency. This branch is charged with responsibility of gathering facts from their original sources which will give an accurate and up-to-date index of the Nation's per capita liquor consumption.

The campaign for State cooperation, he said, is being made the subject of carefully worked out plans. It is to have an important place in tours of inspection which he expects to make.

ILLNESS OF DIAMOND STAR'S WIFE FATAL

has achieved. She attended practically every game that the Nats played here, and she answered most of Walter's fan mail.

Besides her husband and father, she is survived by five children, Walter, jr., Edwin, 12; Robert, 9; Caroline, 7, and Barbara, 4.

Mrs. Johnson had much sickness in her family recently, and her death was partly attributed to the strain placed upon her by the care of Walter, jr., who had both legs broken in an automobile accident several months ago. She was with the boy constantly, accompanying him to baseball games when he could use a wheel chair, and getting up at all hours of the night to comfort him.

Johnson returned from Tampa, Fla., three years ago with a broken ankle, and later nearly died from an attack of influenza. During both of these illnesses Mrs. Johnson sent her children to neighbors and remained constantly at his side.

The next year, while her husband was in Florida for his first season of managing the Griffs, Mrs. Johnson went to a Washington hospital to have her appendix removed. She did not inform her husband about it until afterward, believing that the news might affect his fortunes.

Mrs. Johnson was active in the community life of Bethesda, Md., and in recent years has contributed numerous articles to women's magazines. The entire Washington team and hosts of friends expect to attend the funeral Monday.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Arthur H. Wood, United States Commissioner, was fined $100 by Judge Charles L. Hibbard in District Court today for driving an automobile while drunk. The arrest followed a minor accident.

Attorney Fred M. Myers told the court the commissioner drank some liquor at the home of a friend in Albany and was in an automobile accident as a result either of the bad quality of the liquor or because of illness.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

ONE must, of course, take what comes from Hollywood even in the guise of news with a grain of salt, but accepting the story at its face value a rather amazing picture of the times is presented in the dispatch about Miss Mary Nolan, the film actress, and the narcotic authorities.

The Federal inspector, according to the story, was informed by two nurses that Miss Nolan had punctures in her arms, those little tell-tale needle punctures, of course. Whereupon with the increasing relentlessness with which the law seems to be moving these days, he procured three search warrants.

• • • •

ONE of these warrants must have been to search Miss Nolan's arm because that is exactly what he did, and his keen eyes immediately showed him that there were no punctures there. This being the case he decreed with a decisiveness that marks him for better things: "The case is closed."

The search was undoubtedly made under statue 307 of the Federal Code, VII x. et al, in which it is clearly made in violation of the law and against the interest of society to have punctures in the arm.

The particular statute is very specific. It describes just how far an officer may go in searching for arm punctures and there is provision permitting every citizen to have cavities at the elbow, though there is some doubt as to the freedom of aliens in this respect.

• • • •

THE question which it is expected the next Congress may deal with is one that has long been controversial in the legal fraternity. It is the distinction between punctures and freckles or more commonly called

The Supreme Court once ruled in the case of Hannah, a great big armed woman, whose arm resembled a ham in fact, vs. U. S., that hazel dots were dots and as such were entitled to that immunity given to citizens in the ordinary pursuit of happiness, but it did not draw a clear distinction between hazel dots and punctures.

The question is discussed rather fully here because some one upon reading the Hollywood dispatch might express amazement that a Federal officer upon being told by a woman that another woman had punctures in her arm was authorized to get out three search warrants.

You see he acted under the law prohibiting punctures.

The ceremony had previously been announced for today. No reason for the postponement was advanced by either family.

Gen. Calles is said to have notified his family at luncheon today that he is anxious for a very quiet wedding. It is possible none of his family will attend the ceremony. The general is 52 and his fiancee 24 years old.

$21,000 Payment Ban Asked.

Seeking to hold up payment of $21,000 said to be due under a contract for the construction, alteration or repair of a customs house at San Juan, Porto Rico, the American Hardware Corporation, of New Britain, Conn., yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to restrain Comptroller General J. R. McCarl from paying over the money and J. C. Besosa, Gabriel Soler, Pedro Bolivar and F. M. Mendia from receiving it. Attorney Herbert S. Ward appears for the plaintiff.

CARDINGTON TO MONTREAL.

The flight of the British dirigible, R-100, from England to Canada offers further convincing proof that the air lanes of the North Atlantic will be followed by commercial airships long before they are followed by planes. No airship has ever been lost at sea. Only airships have successfully flown the Atlantic from East to West. Except for the accident that befell her stabilizing fin at the very end of the flight, the R-100 made the crossing swiftly and easily. She was taken off from Cardington Flying Field, in England, Monday night. She was landed at Montreal a little less than 79 hours later. Actually, but 75 hours were required for the flight, the ship having been maneuvered over the Montreal field for more than 3 hours awaiting the dawn before her commander was willing to essay the landing.

The English are to be congratulated for their achievement in having constructed this beautiful air merchantman. The R-100 is the first dirigible to have been designed and constructed exclusively for commercial operation, and the facility with which her maiden transatlantic flight was completed seemingly proves her suitability for regular passenger and freight carrying operation. The damage done her stabilizing fin does not detract from her achievement. The fact that a similar accident befel the Graf Zeppelin on one of her trips indicates that further studies of the stresses and strains to which stabilizing surfaces are subjected are needed to the end that sturdier methods of construction may be devised, but the fact that the damaged member of the R-100 was repaired in the air as was that of the Graf Zeppelin supplied graphic evidence of the greater safety factor of the airship as compared with the airplane.

The flight of the R-100 serves to focus attention on the two new ships now building for the United States Navy at Akron. The Graf Zeppelin, which, through her several spectacular long-distance flights, has played a dominant part in establishing public confidence in lighter-than-air travel, is admittedly too small to be entirely practicable and Sir Dennistoun Burney, designer of the R-100, himself says: "It will take an airship double the size of the R-100 with an average speed of 85 miles an hour before we can realize the full commercial possibilities of lighter-than-air craft." The ships being built for the Navy more closely meet the specifications laid down by Sir Dennistoun for practicability.

The R-100 is peculiarly interesting, however, in that her accommodations are such as to offer comparative luxury to her passengers. The luxury factor is most important if the dirigible is to become a commercial practicality. Speed is the consideration that will govern the selection of dirigibles for trips over long distances, but unless, together with speed, dirigibles offer accommodations at least as luxurious and comfortable as those of the smaller transatlantic vessels they will not be able to command the regular patronage that is essential for profitable operation. The passengers who made the flight on the R-100 are loud in their praises of her comfort. Their praise is in marked contrast with the criticism of living conditions on the Graf Zeppelin that has followed each of her passenger-carrying flights.

HOT WEATHER.

July, 1930, will long be remembered, for it has passed into history as the hottest month ever recorded. In a few years people will be saying: "Ah, do you remember that torrid summer of 1930. It was so hot that * * *." Hotter summer months have been experienced in some places other years, but for sustained heat over a large portion of the United States the month that has just closed has no equal. Its nearest competitor is July, 1901.

Hot summers and cold winters give rise to all kinds of theories as to how the weather is changing. The country may expect a flood of unscientific data, tending to show that the climate is getting hotter. Is this because we are getting closer (or farther away) from the sun, because of deforestation, or some inexplicable phenomena? This gossip will find confirmation by the definite recollection on the part of many "old-timers" of extremely cold winters, such as are no longer experienced.

Fortunately the Weather Bureau puts in a word of assurance. "In the long run," says Dr. Marvin, chief of the bureau, "the weather straightens out of the kinks, and averages all up and down to a level. So far as we can judge, our weather for hundreds of years has shown no permanent change." Thermometers have been in use only 200 years, and the Weather Bureau has been assuaging the public's indignation over meteorological matters for only 60 years. During that time weather trends have been noted, but there has always been reaction in the opposite direction, and in the long run the weather conforms to an almost rigid "normal."

It is true, however, that the climate of various places has been radically changed in known geologic time. Traces of tropical flowers and animal life have been found in the Arctic. In recent geologic times the ice age brought about many changes. But these variations came gradually over a period of perhaps a few million years. Their relation with present weather trends is so slight that no one needs give it a second thought. It is some comfort to know, in spite of the current record and popular theory, that Old Sol has done about his worst this year.

TO AID HOME OWNERS.

President Hoover first became known to the country as an organizer of humanitarian projects. No matter what his position has been, he has used his influence for the betterment of conditions under which the great body of the people live. When he was elected to the Presidency he carried with him many hopes and plans for sociological improvements. Affairs of the Nation have not been allowed to put them out of his mind.

One of these humanitarian projects resolved itself into the White House child health conference. A variation of the same impulse caused the President to call business and industrial leaders together in an effort to avert a period of depression and unemployment. A third committee of the same kind is that conducting research into social trends. These groups of trained experts were brought together by the President and set to work on problems that concern the whole Nation. They involve no expense to the taxpayers, since they are privately financed. It has been estimated that $2,000,000 assembled from private sources has been spent in the work of these bodies.

Mr. Hoover's announcement of a White House conference on home building and home ownership is the latest extension of his program to mobilize talent in the solution of problems that do not properly come within the scope of governmental activity. The President feels that the development of homes in the United States is lagging. He wants the country to know the reasons, and to set the best minds in that field at work solving the problems involved. Finance, design, equipment, city planning, landscaping, &c., will be given attention.

At present there is no thought of laying the groundwork for legislation on the subject. This is a matter for the States to deal with. The purpose of the conference will be rather to develop data, and inform public opinion on questions of home ownership. Nineteen associations will participate in the research. Each is especially interested in the better homes movement, and can be relied upon to disseminate the results of the investigation.

Home ownership is becoming constantly less popular in America. The reasons are that individual homes are expensive, and often inconvenient. Country people are pouring into the cities. Living quarters are everywhere becoming more congested. Apartment houses are being erected by thousands. It will be the task of the conference to search out these disadvantages of home ownership and try to remedy them. What can be accomplished depends upon the committee, but it certainly has a fertile field to work in.

President Hoover has a peculiar talent for stimulating cooperative efforts of this kind. These extragovernmental activities can not be considered a part of his duty as Chief Executive. But that high office gives him an unparalleled opportunity to be of service to the people as well as to the country. The way in which the President is using his influence to promote the general well-being is a source of widespread gratification.

"WHICH WOULD YOU SAVE?"

A Rhode Island youngster, Arthur O. Williams, jr., is proclaimed winner of the Edison scholarship contest. Interest in the contest, however, does not end with the selection of the winner. In the long list of questions propounded, there was one which has kicked up a controversy that threatens to rage for many a day.

The question, one of ten designed to test the character of the boys, was: "You are the head of an expedition which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest must perish. Your companions are: (1) A brilliant scientist, 60 years old; (2) two half-breed guides, ages 58 and 32; (3) the scientist's wife—interested mainly in society matters, age 39; (4) her little son, age 6; (5) the girl you are engaged to marry; (6) your best friend, a young man of your own age who has shown great promise in the field of science; (7) yourself. Which would you choose to live and which to die Give your reasons."

The boys were allowed 3 minutes to answer the question, but a group of scientists in the American Museum of Natural History argued for 3 hours before they reached even a partial agreement. Now they find themselves in sharp disagreement with other groups of scientists.

Is the question to be considered from the standpoint of chivalry, of ethics, or of pure utilitarianism, with all sentiment swept aside? This the men who conceived the question did not make clear, so that definite guideposts are lacking.

Dr. George H. Sherwood, director of the American National Museum of Natural History, would save the younger of the Indian guides, so that he might lead the way to civilization; the younger of the two scientists because of what he might contribute to the world, and the younger of the two women. He would sacrifice the other scientist and the other guide because of their advanced age, the child because of the danger that it might not be able to stand the hardship, and the mother because she probably would not want to be separated from the child. Of course, he would sacrifice himself.

Dr. William P. Montague, professor of philosophy at Columbia University, however, looks at the question from two standpoints, and gives two answers. Viewing it through the eyes of a utilitarian, he says he would save the life of the brilliant scientist, whose present value to mankind is greater than the value of any of the others, the younger scientist, because of his promise, and the younger guide because of his greater efficiency. Looking at it from a standpoint of ethics, he would follow the code of the sea: Women and children first.

Some of the Edison contestants sided with Dr. Sherwood; some with Dr. Montague. Some disagreed with them both, one young man, Robert H. Smith, who lives on the edge of a desert in New Mexico, declaring frankly that his first thought would be to save himself. Aggravating as the question is, it does have virtue. For a time, it may displace prohibition as a topic of drawing-room conversation.

COURT CONGESTION.

Two new associate justices, Joseph W. Cox and Oscar R. Luhring, were sworn in as members of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia yesterday, bringing the total number of justices in that tribunal to nine. The additional judgeships were created to take care of an acute problem, namely, heavy congestion of the court's docket, but their induction created a new problem of congestion.

The courthouse itself is too small. This is emphasized by the fact that, in order to provide an additional courtroom and to provide chambers for the new judges, it has been necessary to take over two rooms of the law library and a room heretofore used as a dormitory for male jurors. Now, whenever a mixed jury has to be locked up for the night rooms will have to be rented. Quarters should be provided for jurors in the courthouse itself. There should be a dormitory for men jurors and one for women jurors. The quarters of the district attorney also need enlarging, as well as the quarters of other officials who find themselves cramped for space.

It has been suggested that a wing be added to the courthouse on the north side. If this can be done without spoiling Judiciary Square architecturally the District Commissioners should recommend it.

The Public Health Service advises business men to treat their bodies the same as they do their automobiles. But it seems questionable whether the body can endure so many impacts.

The corn crop, it is said, has been ruined by the drought. Is this nature's way of coming to the aid of the newly organized Prohibition Bureau of the Department of Justice?

The windmill business, says the Department of Commerce, is still a major industry. They don't have to tell that to Washingtonians.

France is experiencing record-breaking rainfall. And they don't have to drink water over there.

SHAMROCK V

From the London Times.

Many a good wish went with Shamrock V as she set forth on her long voyage across the Atlantic to try to win back in American waters the cup which has eluded the grasp of British yachtsmen for the last 80 years. No one can foresee what will be the result of the races to be held over the new course to the north of Long Island in September, but hopes run high and it is thought that there never was a better chance of winning America's Cup. The new challenger has been tried out in home waters as no challenger was before, and she has shown herself in her trials on the East Coast, on the South, in Irish waters, and on the Firth of Clyde to be unequaled among British yachts at the present time. When she was leaving Rothesay Bay after her last race to come south to make ready for her voyage she was flying her winning pennants, a proud collection of fifteen firsts and four seconds gained in 22 races. That is something to boast about.

She has raced against bigger yachts, which have been carrying a much larger spread of sail, and she has beaten them on level terms. When she races for the cup she will have to contend with a vessel built according to the same rule as herself and carrying the same area of sail. That is a new condition that has been introduced into the races this year, and it is one that is likely to put the contest on fairer terms than ever before.

There is no means at present of judging the new Shamrock in comparison with the four vessels which have been built for the occasion in the United States. One of the four is to be chosen to defend the cup after a series of trials which are now being carried out over the courses where the races are to be held later, so that those who sail the defender will have the advantage of local knowledge and experience. Which of the four—Enterprise, Weetamoe, Whirlwind, or Yankee—will race against Shamrock V will not be decided until a few days before the first race on September 13. There is only one challenger, but the defenders have the pick of four boats. Yet even so, in view of the new conditions governing the races and the fine showing the Shamrock has made in home waters, there is certain to be a keen struggle for the cup.

The Shamrock is the fifth of the family, and it is just over 30 years since Sir Thomas Lipton built his first challenger. Fortune has never been too kind to him in his attempts to win America's Cup. It may be his turn this year. All will wish him well in this adventure, which he is about to make in his eighty-first year, and hope that he may bring home the cup at long last.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

WHEN MOTHER'S ASLEEP.

When mother's asleep,
I must stand at the door,
To silence the stomping
Of feet on the floor,
And stop any invader
Who comes with a rush,
By raising a finger
And wispering: "Hush!"

When mother is taking
An afternoon snooze,
Those few precious minutes
Miss Janet will choose
With shoutings and pleadings
Her door to bombard
Unless I am faithfully
Standing on guard.

It is strange, but at times
When the mother's awake
Janet plays by the hour
And no noise will she make;
But her feet and her voice
Into action will leap
The minute her mother
Has dropped off to sleep.

I'm a vigilant sentry,
It's seldom I doze,
But by like a flash
Janet frequently goes,
And sometimes before
I can turn round about,
She has broken that nap
With a bang and a shout.

Says the mother to me
As she comes down the stairs:
"It seems when I'm resting
There's no one who cares.
This house is as noisy
As foundry or mill,
I should think when I'm sleeping
You'd keep that child still!"

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MY Dear Louise: When a normal young lady of 17, blessed with the constitution of a Missouri mule and the appetite of a harvest hand, declines fried chicken because she is surrounded by important-looking strangers, it is time to tell her a few things for the good of her soul.

Eating among strangers here of late has made you self-conscious, and you need another lesson in good manners.

Good table manners, like others, consist almost wholly in showing consideration for the other fellow.

When people first decided to quit dipping their fingers in a common bowl of stew, the purpose of the reform wasn't to keep their fingers clean, but to avoid spoiling the other fellow's appetite.

Time and custom have established the orthodox way of eating, and Uncle John no longer swallows his knife nor does Aunt Jane distribute tooth picks with the last course; but manners were made for man, not man for manners, and now as always the chief purpose of eating is to satisfy hunger—not to show off pretty parlor tricks.

Good table manners the world over, though they differ as costumes do in different lands, consist in picking up food and disposing of it in a manner that will not offend the delicate sensibilities of the spectators.

That is the whole story.

Good manners tell what you are, but manners that are too good tell what you aren't.

People who grow up in good homes absorb the principle of good manners and eat their food tidily without apparent effort to follow exact rules.

People denied good example in childhood and required to learn good manners late in life usually pay more attention to their manners than their food, and their very correctness confesses that they learned from a book.

Few things are more painful to witness than the rigidly right table manners of the newly respectable who crook a little finger as they conform to Rule No. 47.

Using a fork to chase a scrap of lettuce leaf around a plate isn't proof of good breeding.

It merely advertises the fact that you are conscious of being "middle class" and afraid to reveal your commonness by using your fingers.

Don't let strangers destroy your self-confidence with their awkward nicety.

If you eat so daintily as not to spoil the other fellow's appetite, your manners are perfect.

Don't overdo the business.

It is the stable boy, not the prince, who is afraid of doing the wrong thing. Love, DAD.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

A TAXI DRIVER'S OBLIGATION.

If you would drive a taxi well
Avoid appearance crude;
When zooming through the streets pell mell
Just watch your pulchritude.

Remember that when in a cab
A passenger doth ride,
The sight of clothing rather drab
Will leave him mortified.

Fastidious, O driver, be—
Look spic and span and pert!
Arrange your collar carefully—
And button up your shirt!

Wash, taximan, behind each ear
And in your mirror note
Your cut of clothing, front and rear,
And don't take off your coat!

Remember that when speeding through
The city on one wheel
And barely missing lamp posts you
Should foster sex appeal.

Be ever neat and realize
That when he's in a wreck
A passenger wants pretty ties
Around the driver's neck.

Use scented soap three times a day
And know when motor fails
A passenger won't mind delay
If you have pretty nails!

Shave in the morning and at night;
Oil carefully your hair;
Keep your complexion lily white
And change your underwear.

Remember as a truck you biff
And upset in the street,
A passenger won't mind it if You're looking clean and neat.

Know well that if you overturn
And bruise a rider much
He won't care if he can discern
A skin he loves to touch!

Forget not if you lose control
And some poor hiker slay,
He will not mind it, on the whole,
If you are garbed okay.

It isn't how you drive or where
Or what you say or do;
The test is what, good sir, you wear
And if your tie's askew.

AND USING THE SCRUBBING BRUSH.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Public Is Industry's Hog—It Requires Plenty of Cornmeal in the Form of Good Wages if It Is to Be Sold.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Quillen talks about getting immigrants here to consume some of the surplus goods. But what about the present population? They say we have overproduced and yet there are millions of people needing and wanting the goods which are waiting to be sold. Who is to blame for this state of affairs? Is it labor? Capital? Government?

Some say labor, that every one decided to get thrifty and save some money. Which made consumption of goods decline so that production had to be cut down, thus throwing some people out of work and reducing their buying power. And this automatically made matters worse, further cutting consumption of goods and making still more people lose their jobs by cuts in production. And so on and on from bad to worse.

But that reasoning might stand a second thought. People should be encouraged to save their money; that is, unless we want to make the Government responsible for them in their old age.

Henry Ford was called a philanthropist when he raised all his wages. And people marveled at the low price of his car. Yet he is no philanthropist. He is merely looking out for his own neck. It is all that he has ever claimed to be doing.

If industrial managers keep wages low, they keep buying power low. They are actually trying to raise pork by starving the hog.

It costs money to feed a hog cornmeal. Industrial managers are in the habit of counting the pennies and saving the cornmeal. A half-fed hog will scarcely make lean bacon. More than that, a hungry hog has a bad disposition. He will root the boards from his pen, get into the garden and do damage where he should not. But in the meantime the money that might have been spent for cornmeal is being saved. And those who are so saving it, think that they are doing well.

The public is industry's hog. The wages which the public receives are its cornmeal. Industry has been in the habit of saving the money that might have been spent for meal to fatten the hog. The public is paid low wages and manages to get along hungry and half fed, but always tearing the boards from their pen.

Industries' hog should be fat; that is, for industries' benefit. If the hog is fat it can be sold. And so with the public. If it has money in its pockets, then it can be sold the goods which industry is making for it.

PHILLIP R. WHEELER.

Samuel Russell Presents a Solution for All Economic Ills Which Involves the Conversion of the Banking Structure to a New Form.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We maintain in the United States a $60,000,000,000 banking machine to carry daily operations of $2,000,000,000, which produce actual daily credit and debit balances of $200,000,000. Bank credit is 300 times the daily dollar trade balance, and they call this fiscal efficiency.

The brutal truth is that the banks of this country are taking more than 100 per cent annual interest on all the gold coin and bullion which is owned by all the banks together. The controversy over unit banking, branch banking, group banking and chain banking is just a quarrel between bankers over the split of the profits of the banking system.

This can all be rectified by converting the banks into clearing houses for private credits and sinking houses for private debts. The facilities and personnel of modern banking are perfectly adaptable to this process.

The trade in work and goods by which the people live and the country prospers can not take a regular and normal course until this be done. This is the one thing which will terminate the alternation of good and bad times. SAMUEL RUSSELL.

Former Ambassador Johnson Pleads for Aid for the Library of American Studies in Rome.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I add a word in support of Ambassador Garrett's cogent plea for aid for the Liberty of American Studies in Rome. Like my distinguished successor in the ambassadorship, I was during my service in Rome ex officio president of the library, and as such became familiar with its unique and most valuable work. The library might almost be called a second American Embassy to Italy, for its functions are not only to represent our country but to cultivate international knowledge and comity. Every American and especially every American who loves Italy—and who that knows her does not?—has the right to be proud of this center of culture and good will.

At this time, when the hearts of all persons of feeling are torn with distress at the catastrophe which has befallen Italy—and which makes one shudder with apprehension for other sections of the world's treasure-land of natural and artistic beauty—and when the pride of that country forbids the acceptance of material aid from our citizens, it is not inappropriate to remember that there are other ways in which we may strengthen the ties and enlighten the understanding between the two nations. The intellectual and spiritual influence of the Library of American Studies, already important in its beneficence, is entitled to the consideration of every one who believes that man does not live by bread alone.

May I add that the leading spirit in the management of the library, as of the beautiful Keats-Shelley Memorial in Rome, is Commandatore H. Nelson Gay, to whose intelligence and devotion his fellow Americans are indebted for the success of both.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY

Army Carnival Here Advanced To September

Unique Social Event In Fall to Have "Secret" Feature.

A BIG surprise is in store for friends of the Army who always lend support to the Washington Barracks Carnival, that unique entertainment which has become an institution in the annals of fall society as well as a prelude to the round of gayety that marks the final outdoor events before more formal entertaining sets in. For one thing, the carnival is scheduled earlier than last year, the dates chosen being September 25, 26 and 27, all events to take place at the Army War College. The earlier dates presage an early return of Washington hostesses and debutantes now scattered among the Nation's pleasure resorts, for the opening of the event heralds the first real active affair participated in by society following the summer holiday.

As a substitute for the World War mock battle, which has featured the carnival for three years, a brand-new feature is being prepared, "a deep, dark secret and one that will particularly interest the visitors from the District of Columbia," declare members of the executive committee, which includes this year Gen. and Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Merritte W. Ireland and Maj. Gen and Mrs. William D. Connor.

Last year the patrons were thrilled with the prowess of Sergt. York, who showed how it is possible to break up a machine gun nest, to kill a score of Germans and bring in four or five score prisoners singlehanded. This year they shall see—well, that's the secret—but it's quite worth while.

The first day will be "Virginia Day," with the two following days devoted to the interests of Maryland and of the District of Columbia. All sorts of "concessions" and carnival features, riding and maneuvers mark the fete. And, best of all, the Army social leaders, their debutante daughters and groups of Washington's social "butterflies" will come drifting back to town to create ideas and offer aid for the support of the event. Already hostesses are planning teas and suppers to give color to the fete.

Presumably the President and Mrs. Hoover will attend. Their names will head the list of patrons. To Mrs. Summerall Washington owes its gratitude for introducing the delightful fall recreation into the social calendar. Inspired by the success of the garden parties given each year at Governors Island in New York for the Army Relief, Mrs. Summerall conceived the idea of a carnival for Washington that would offer color, movement and incidentally a knowledge of Army maneuvers to visitors, and with the aid of Army groups created the fall fete, which not only augments the fund for the Relief Society of the Army, but a delightful diversion as well.

The Army Relief Society carries on work among the widows and orphans of service men. Among its most ardent patrons is Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, who gained her initial experience as a devotee of Army endeavor while Mr. Stimson was Secretary of War.

HIDE IN THE DARK

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

Time: All-Hallows Eve.
Place: Lady Court, an old manor house south of Washington.

Cast of Characters.

Lindy Marsden, lonely, lovely, a dark-eyed romanticist, and mistress of Lady Court.

Dour King, hilarious and jovial, the life of every party and the founder of the March Hares.

Neil Sheridan, sleek, dark, highly successful in his career as a lawyer and husband of Trudi, wise, witty and chic, with all the ease of manner of a grand duchess and the lack of manners of a fishwife.

Chatty Ross, small, gay, blindly adoring wife of Tom Ross, the least successful man in the room, shabby and sensitive among his wealthy friends.

Hanna Dart, a gentle lady, immaculately beautiful, whose reserve masks a deep affection for her husband.

Gavin Dart, a rather tired and immensely successful business man of 50, with shrewd, dark eyes and steel-gray hair.

Ray Hardy, the youngest member of the party, not long married and overwhelmingly in love with

Joel Hardy, her charming and irrepressible husband, who has not grown five minutes older in the last ten years.

Jill Leighton, graceful and gracious, stepsister of that legendary Sunny, the beloved girl whose strange death ten years ago still lay like a shadow over the gay group.

Larry Redmond, an agreeable young banker, who can not understand why Jill hates him.

Kit Baird, wanderer and adventurer in strange lands, who in his casual way does every romantic thing magnificently well.

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Thirteen gay revelers, calling themselves the March Hares, have gathered on Halloween at Lady Court, an old manor house. As the party gets under way, some one starts a graphophone. The record is "Underneath the Stars." Sunny's tune. Sunny herself, whom every one loved, having been drowned in Washington.

Kit entertains with a few songs. Lindy then tells him why she arranged the party. She confesses her love for him, proposes while in another part of the house Larry proclaims his love to Jill. Outside a storm is raging, but the March Hares continue to make merry. Kit and Doug, however, quarrel when Lindy objects (for the moment) to dancing with King. The situation is saved when Lindy relates a murder story concerning early relatives who occupied Lady Court.

Chatty and Trudi review events since the last party.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY.

On Being Jealous.

"I never saw so many doors in my born days. Where do they all go?" inquired Ray.

"These two on either side of the fireplace are just closets—the one next to the wood closet goes to the service quarters—the one next to the closet with all the old things in it goes to the chapel. That's all these are except the huge double one into the front hall—we never keep them closed."

"I suppose it's that long row of French windows opening on the terrace," murmured Ray vaguely. "And I forgot that those other two were closets." She circled the great couch warily, tucking her slim ankles under her in the corner of the love seat closest to the fire.

"Still seeing Sidney in the offing, you little nitwit?" inquired Joel. "What happened to the desk, Lindy?"

"I don't know, truly. I suppose that even Sidney's most adoring descendants decided that that was a little sinister as a souvenir. Did you leave the things, darling?"

Trudi emerged from the dark doorway, with Chatty beaming at her heels, and ensconced herself virtuously in the other loveseat.

"Are you sluggards doing the murder all over again?" she demanded severely. "Don't you ever get tired fo it? I'll bet Gavin started it. Pour me another, Sherry. I'm certainly thankful to God that people don't go around sticking knives into any one that they're annoyed with nowadays. It would take just about three or four fine, self-indulgent mornings up and down Park avenue to make the New York death rate catch up with India's famine district in two leaps and a bound. What I'd do to that Lawrence woman who's forever cribbing my best hors d'oeuvres! And that dumb parlor maid of mine and that drunk little Olney boy and——"

"Do you really believe the murder went out with periwigs?" asked Dart, his amused gray eyes fixed on her appraisingly.

"Or is it your contention that they are conveniently invented by the press to supply headlines?"

"Oh, gunmen!" Trudi dismissed them airily. "And nice, warm-blooded Latins, and psychopathic dope fiends, and the more excitable hijackers—no, what I meant was that you could count on being reasonably safe with your friends and relations these days. So unlike the home life of the dear Borgias."

Murderers Undiscovered.

"My dear girl, I'd be willing to wager that no matter how exclusive you may be, you number at least three murderers in your circle of acquaintance."

"Gavin, you really are the most priceless flatterer. I swear I've never met one single murderer in my whole wasted life. Is it like that in Pittsburgh? Sherry, let's live in Pittsburgh."

"I don't mean avowed or even accused murderers," said Dart amiably. "I mean the undiscovered ones. The devoted daughter-in-law who has left two windows skillfully open on the old lady who is just recovering nicely from double pneumonia and is leaving them two million in her will; the wife who goads her husband into the one honorable way out—the river; the husband who detests the notoriety of divorce and solicitously administers that second headache powder——"

"Gavin, I think that's dreadful," Hanna, her low voice shaken, her color fled, leaned forward, gravely imperious. "I don't think that it's amusing at all—it's frightful to talk that way. And you're frightening poor Ray, too."

"Let's ignore her, Dart." The recalcitrant Joel pressed forward undaunted. "Look here, there's one thing about that tall tale of Lindy's that rather defeats me. There's not even a hint about that well-known essential, the weapon. Shouldn't you say that it would take something rather special in the line of knives to go through a collar and stock and sever the cord all at one fell swoop?"

"Well, you'd need a good sharp knife and it would certainly require an extremely steady hand. There's little margin for error in that operation, let me tell you. It would be infinitely simpler and surer to strike from the side and get the jugular—granted that you had no objection to blood."

"But could you do that without being seen?"

"Oh, surely—come up behind the person like this——"

"Gavin! Gavin, if you don't drop this hideous nonsense this minute I'm going to leave the room. You're making me ill, and Ray and Lindy, too. I mean it. I am simply not going to stand——"

"Sorry, my dear. Evidently we're the lowest of ruffians, Hardy. We'll continue our entirely scientific research work with a more sympathetic audience. Hanna, if you'll stop looking at me like that, I'll atone by preparing this apple tub with my own unregenerate hands and you shall have the very first bob. Just how does one go about filling a tub of the Gargantuan proportions?"

"Every one gets a bucket from the kitchen—that's the fairest way, isn't it?"

Preparing the Prizes.

Trudi said sternly from the door by the fireplace, "I dont want to throw a jarring note into this merry gathering, but just as a matter of cold fact there are three or four hundred dishes out there waiting to get their faces washed before we pass lightly on to the pastimes of the evening, such as bucket filling, high jumping and the like. I'll thank you all to pass slowly but snappily through this door, single file so that I can count your noses and make sure there aren't any low slackers around here. You first, Mr. Hardy. Right after him, Mrs. Hardy—don't let go his coattails or the goblins'll get you. Next Sheridan.

"Ah, Trudi, have a heart. Those plates won't walk off in the night——"

"Not another word out of you, my good man. Rules of the 'ouse and well you knows it. I am surprised at you, I am. No good, dawdling, boys * * * Lindy, don't hostesses wash dishes?"

Lindy met the friendly, mocking eyes fixed on her unwaveringly.

"I'm going to fix up the prizes while they're out, Trudi, dear. It won't take more than a minute. I just have to label them and tie them up."

"Is—that—so?" drawled Trudi, softly. "I'll say one thing for you—you're as resourceful a minx as ever I came across and I've come across some. Tying up prizes, is it? Well, you don't want to catch cold doing it and this fire's nearly out. I'll let some one off long enough to bring back an armful of wood. Who is the fireman 'round here, anyway—Kit Baird?"

Lindy, never moving from the deep chair, bestowed on her the most circumspect and fleeting of smiles.

"Yes—it's Kit. Thanks a lot, Trudi, darling—you think of everything."

Trudi said darkly, "I think a whole lot more than you'd believe, you unholy little fraud. You'd better get at those packages of yours before I expose you."

She vanished abruptly into the darknesses of the passages and Lindy sat staring at the empty doorway thoughtfully. After a long moment she stirred, stretched with all the luxurious grace of a Persian kitten and rose lightly to her feet. There was a large green box in the corner of the room. She broke the cord about it, the smile hovering again at sight of the exquisite array of packages that it contained, trim and fragile as butterflies, with their great bows and tiny labels. She lifted them out carefully and stood on tiptoe to place them in a row along the mantel shelf—the dull silver one with the huge gold bow, the bright silver one with coral, the sapphire blue one banded with jade-green and the powder-blue one strewn with little stars, the flaming one with silver tassels and the frosty one knotted with flame.

She hovered a moment, touching their bows to even airer perfection and still on tiptoe, turned to the dim mirror, moving a candle to get a better view—one finger on her lip, as though she was adjuring even the shadows to silence. After a critical moment, with tilted head, she frowned slightly and loosened the violet smock at wrist and throat. Still frowning she slipped it from her with an impatient shrug of her shoulders, tossing it onto the chair behind her without a backward glance, her eyes still on the mirror. The girl in it smiled dimly back at her, the long pearls gleaming at her ears, the tulle scarf falling lightly away from slim arms and white throat, a face all witchery and grace, with a beggar's eyes and a fairy's mouth.

A voice suggested aimably from the shadows beyond her shoulders: "The next line is, 'Oh, how you startled me!' isn't it?"

She shook her head, not turning.

"No The next line is 'I thought you were never coming.'"

Chivalry Not Dead.

Kit, with that Indian tread of his, passed her silently, depositing his load of wood on the hearth and kneeling beside it.

"I thought I made fairly good time, but obviously I'm a laggard. Trudi had some tale of how you were alternately tying bundles and freezing to death. Her diagnosis seems incorrect in every detail; even a smock is too heavy."

The fire flamed suddenly under his hands and on his hair. Lindy turned from the mirror, still smiling at what she saw.

"Not too heavy—too ugly! And I'm not cold at all without it—see!" She laid two hands, feather light, on his, and he swung to his feet as though they had touched some hidden spring.

"I'll be off, then. Shall I tell Trudi you're coming?"

She stood quiet as some small, lost animal, scenting danger on a distant wind. "Trudi? No. What is it, Kit? I wanted to talk to you. Don't you want to talk to me?"

He said, staring down at her with something alien and dangerous in his eyes, "No. I'm not feeling particularly—conversational. Nor, on a wager, are you. And I'm not precisely hell-bent on permitting myself to be made a fool of so soon again either. Still chivalry is not entirely dead." He put a casual finger under her chin, tilted the small face to his and bent his head. "That what you want, little Lindy?"

She said, unmoving, in a voice so low that he could hardly hear, "No. Don't touch me, please. I'll not permit you to cheapen yourself by cheapening me."

He dropped his hand with a careless shrug.

"Sorry—I'm apparently unusually dense tonight."

Lindy whispered, "What is it? Why do you want to hurt me? You shouldn't want to hurt me, it's too easy."

Kit, flicking a glance at her more casual than his finger, disclaimed lightly, "My dear child, I wouldn't hurt you for the world. Am I dismissed? I'll send King back to console you for my obvious deficiencies."

"Doug?" The lashes lifted over blankly incredulous eyes. "Why should you send Doug?"

"Ah, my dear, I'm walking delicately before the Lord tonight, let me tell you. If I irritate Doug again by trespassing on his own private property, he may do something to spoil this delightful party, as you suggest."

She said, "I am your property. Not Douglas nor any man that breathes means as much to me as your shadow on the wall——" She laid her hand against it and asked in a still voice of wonder, "Are you jealous of Doug, Kit?"

There was a swift gleam of teeth but his eyes, fast on the shadow, did not soften.

"Lord, I don't know!" He lit a cigarette with one dexterous move, drew a deep breath and smiled at her again through the blue haze. "I'm not a connoisseur on jealousy. How does it strike you?"

She answered in that same still voice. "It strikes me as—rather wonderful. Let's—let's pretend that you're jealous of Doug, Kit."

He said through the smoke in that careless drawl that missed insolence only because of its complete indifference: "I can think of better ways of spending the week-end."

Lindy, stretching up to rest an ineffably gentle finger against the cheek of the haughty shadow, murmured with a sidelong sweep of lashes, "Oh and so can I!"

And suddenly the man and the shadow relaxed, and his careless laughter filled the room.

VIRGINIAN CALLED TO BOSTON PULPIT

Arthur Lee Kinsolving Has Been Trained in Schools in Alexandria.

GOES TO FAMED TRINITY

A Virginian of the Virginians, the Rev. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, has been chosen rector of Phillips Brooks' famous church in Boston, old Trinity, and will take up his duties there October 20. He was born on Long Island, but that does not keep him from being a Virginian, for his ancestral roots go far back in Old Dominion soil.

This is no new adventure for a Southern minister, to become minister of a fashionable church in the Hub of the Universe. The Rev. Jasper C. Massee, pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston, who lately resigned to go to California, is a native of Georgia. And there are others.

New England used to send many ministers to the Old South and many young ministers of the South were educated at Amherst, notably Dr. B. M. Palmer, for so many years pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in New Orleans, the only minister in the South who was powerful enough to preach a State into the Confederacy.

Son of Baltimore Rector,

Mr. Kinsolving was born at Huntington, Long Island, N. Y., August 24, 1899. His father is the Rev. Arthur B. Kinsolving, D. D., rector of Old St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, Md., a brother of the late Right Rev. George Herbert Kinsolving, bishop of Texas, and the Right Rev. Lucien Lee Kinsolving, pioneer bishop of Southern Brazil. His mother is Sally Bruce Kinsolving, a noted author, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Seddon Bruce of Richmond, Va., and a niece of Philip Alexander Bruce, the author; former Senator William Cabell Bruce, and the late Professor James Douglas Bruce. One of Mr. Kinsolving's grandfathers was Secretary of War in Jefferson Davis' Cabinet during the last years of the Secession War.

Mr. Kinsolving for the last six years has held the pastorate of Grace Church at Amherst and his rapid success in effecting a wide influence from a comparatively obscure pastorate is believed to have been an important factor in his election to so important a pulpit as Trinity.

His influence on the students of Amherst College was so pronounced that the college was willing to pay him a salary to keep him there. Going there at the age of 25, he was soon active in many departments of college life. He organized, with the Rev. James Gordon Gilkey, of Springfield, a Clerical Club for the students, and its monthly meetings were attended by 40 to 50 undergraduates and with such effect that in 1929 Mr. Kinsolving influenced nine students to join the ministry. In 1927 three students took up the ministry through his efforts after leaving college, and in 1928 five responded to his appeal. The club presented a series of speakers each college year, and, according to Mr. Glenn, was highly successful.

Acted as Student Adviser.

In an official connection with the college Mr. Kinsolving took charge of the selection of preachers for the chapel services and acted as adviser. Unofficially he was secretary of the Amherst Christian Association, called on freshmen and was active in fraternity circles, having been a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Chapter at the University of Virginia, where he was graduated as A. B. in the class of 1920.

His outstanding quality was his great friendliness. He would sit up all night talking to some boy who wanted advice or help, and he had an absolutely contagious enthusiasm which seemed to work wonders with all sorts of peole. He would talk to a tramp or an old woman or a college freshman—all with the same enthusiasm and interest.

A man, under great mental distress, came to see him at Amherst, having had a sharp disagreement with a young woman. "I hate that girl," said the man, "and I shall not see her any more. But every time I look at this watch chain she gave me, I think about her."

"Well, take my watch chain and I'll take yours," replied Mr. Kinsolving, and he exchanged chains with the man, which surprised the latter into a more rational frame of mind as to the importance of a watch chain.

At Alexandria Seminary.

Mr. Kinsolving was educated at the Gilman Country School, Baltimore. He graduated from the Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Va., and from the University of Virginia, B. A., 1920. He was a Rhodes scholar at Christ Church, Oxford, England, 1920-23 and received the B. A. in the Honor School of Theology at Oxford University. He graduated with degree of B. D. at the Virginia Theological Seminary in 1924; received his M. A. at Oxford in 1926. He is a Phi Beta Kappa and was a member of the Officers Training Camp at Fortress Monroe in 1918.

Mr. Kinsolving worked as lay assistant at the Christ Church Mission in London. He is honorary canon of Christ Church Cathedral, Springfield. He is a member of the executive council of the Province of New England, and of the executive council of the Episcopal Church for work in colleges. In this connection he has been a preacher among others at the following colleges and schools: Yale, Williams, Wesleyan, Trinity, Smith, Wellesley, Mount Holyoke, Wheaton, Phillips-Exeter, Phillips-Andover, Groton, St. Mark's, Taft, Pomfret, Avon, Choate, Loomis, Williston, Deerfield, Mount Hermon. He participated for six years in the conferences at Northfield, both for young women and college men, and assisted occasionally in the conference of the Episcopal Church at St. Paul's School, Concord, and at conferences at Silver Bay and Sewanee, Tenn.

While at Oxford Mr. Kinsolving specialized in theology and at his graduation as M. A. in 1923 took second-class honors, standing in the first 20 of a class of about 100. Mr. Kinsolving was a member of Christ Church College at the university.

Also Oxford Student.

"He was an able student," said a fellow student at Oxford, "but not at all a bookish fellow. He plays a first-rate game of tennis—good enough, perhaps, to beat about half the members of the average college tennis team—and he was always active socially, making friends with great facility."

It was at Oxford that Mr. Kinsolving met a boy who was to exert a great influence over him, Alexander Barton, of Baltimore. The latter "lavished Christian friendship on all of us," so young Kinsolving said in a speech several years ago at a young people's conference of the Episcopal Church, and Barton's premature death in 1924, from blood poisoning, following a long period of overwork, made a lasting impression on his fellow student.

The new rector of Trinity Church is not married. Neither was Phillips Brooks.

Church of All Nations Planned for Capital

Luther Place Memorial to Hold Services in Many Tongues.

Ambitious Program Set By New Pastor of Lutherans.

By DAVID RANKIN BARBEE.

A Lutheran Church of all nations! This is the aim and the ambition of the noted Lutheran Church at Luther Place in this city. Popularly it is known as Luther Place Memorial Church, but that is not its charter name. When it was incorporated it was called Memorial Evangelical Lutheran Church. And thereby hangs a tale that can never be told too often.

This is not an old church as age is reckoned, for it dates no further back than 1873, when the corner stone of the present edifice was laid, so that three years hence it will celebrate its sixtieth birthday, and when Dr. William Joseph Showalter and the other Amen Corner brethren and sisters who have been answering the roll call there a long time march up to blow out a candle on the birthday cake, that event will be as important as a marriage feast. Dr. Rasmussen, the brilliant young minister who has just come to Luther Church, will beam over his glasses and say to himself: "It is good to be here."

Let us not anticipate, but go back to the founding of this church. It is in a very real sense the child of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, long at the corner of Eleventh and H streets, with a chapel on U street, but which now itself is erecting a beautiful new church on Ellicott street near Connecticut avenue.

Dr. Butler Busy Man.

The Rev. Dr. John G. Butler, a noted man in the Lutheran Church in the United States, was the pastor of St. Paul's. In his day he was an editor of church publications, a leader in the General Synod, and a progressive. Congress honored him by electing him chaplain of the Senate and of the House, the only man who ever held both places. During the great Secession War he ministered faithfully to Lutherans in the armies encamped in and around Washington and to the Lutherans who lived in the Capital. This experience it was which gave birth to Luther Place Memorial Church.

It seems that the Episcopalians had built a small church parlor, as it was called in those days, on the site of Luther Place Church, but had not succeeded in gathering in a congregation there, so they sold their property to St. Paul's and Dr. Butler opened a Sunday School there—a mission Sunday School, as part of his work at St. Paul's. The mission grew and like Jerushan, waxed fat, and in a little while the child was larger than its mother. Then it was that Dr. Butler resigned at St. Paul's and accepted the pastorate of the mission.

On taking charge he said, in effect: "Here, on this ground, we will establish a memorial to peace, and may this church be a benediction to the North and to the South." He organized a congregation, took out a charter and then set to work to gather funds from Lutherans in all parts of the United States. Thus came into existence the first national memorial to peace in that war.

Money From Everywhere.

Money poured in from everywhere, but not without earnest and energetic effort on the part of Dr. Butler to get it. He wrote letters and he traveled, he preached sermons and he lectured, he stirred the Lutheran press up until he impressed the Lutheran church with his enthusiasm and they got in step with him. In this sense the Luther Place Church is a National Church, not the first one here, but the second, the primacy going to the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, which became a National Church by order of the General Conference in 1857 or thereabouts.

Not content with building a memorial to peace, Dr. Butler organized all the Lutherans in Washington into a national society and this society erected a memorial to Martin Luther. You have often seen the bronze statue of the hero of the Reformation standing in front of Luther Place Church, and no doubt have been told, as this writer often has, that it was the gift of the last German Kaiser, but that is not true. It is the gift of Washington Lutherans—if gift it can be called—and is the replica of the famous statue of Luther at Worms. The Federal Government gave the church the little triangle on which the statue stands, and that statue and that triangle have given Luther Place Memorial Church its popular name.

This was not the full extent of Dr. Butler's plans for a memorial church. Under his guidance memorial windows were placed in the church to all the great leaders of the Protestant Reformation—John Wickliffe, John Calvin, John Knox, Zwingli, Melancthon, John Wesley and Luther. In no other church in this country, in no other church in the world probably, is there such a group of memorial windows. It also has memorial pews to Lee and to Grant. What an example on broad gauge tolerance is here.

Church in Cow Pasture.

There are many interesting stories told of the rebuffs that Dr. Butler met in his determined efforts to build this church, but none so interesting as this. The Lutheran Church at Cumberland, Md., had been asking for a donation, and being Scotch as well as German by ancestry, they sent their pastor here to spy out the land just as Joshua spied out Canaan. He was a cautious old man, and after his visit he went back to his people and told them: "Don't give a cent. Dr. Butler is making the mistake of his life. He has located his church in a cow pasture." At that time there was a country blacksmith shop at the corner of Rhode Island avenue and Fourteenth street.

DR. CARL C. RASMUSSEN.

For thirty-six years or more this good man served this congregation, and then was gathered to his fathers. He was succeeded by Dr. Lloyd C. Douglass, now pastor of a Congregational Church in Canada; and he by the Rev. Henry Anstadt, now pastor of the Lutheran Church in Chambersburg, Pa., and he by Dr. George N. Diffenderfer, who resigned last year after a ten-year pastorate.

Like Dr. Butler, Dr. Diffenderfer left his impress on this community. He was one of the organizers of the Federation of Churches and served two terms as its president. When Dr. Lucius Clark, now chancellor of American University, resigned as secretary of the federation, he took over that office also and kept the federation alive until it was able to secure the services of its present highly efficient and trustworthy secretary, Dr. W. L. Darby. It was also through his instrumentality that the Lutheran College for Women was located at Wheaton, Md., just outside of Washington.

When Dr. Diffenderfer came to Luther Place Church he told his official board that he would stay ten years and then resign. Two years before the expiration of this period he gave formal notification of his intention, and promptly on the dot he quit, much to the regret of his members.

Selecting his successor was no easy task. Luther Place Church is a downtown church, and downtown churches in these parlous times are hard to keep up. If the bell is put in the pulpit, however, the people will hear it and will come. The committee on pulpit supply canvassed the situation and determined to get the best young Lutheran minister in America to succeed to the vacancy. And here is how they went about it.

There are thirteen synods in the Lutheran Church of which Luther Place is a member, and in these synods there are 3,000 ministers. Their parochial reports are all printed in the official journals of the synods. The committee got these reports for the years 1924-29 and studied every report of every minister represented in them, to see which ministers were alive and which ones were marking time. The purpose of this was to find out which ministers were congregation builders, for if Luther Place Church grew it must rebuild its membership.

By a process of elimination one man was picked out as having made a remarkable record in gathering in the sheep. He answered every other requirement, too. But this was not enough. Every prominent leader in the church, the United Lutheran, from the President down, was consulted to get their opinion of this minister; and without exception they rated him very high, and without exception they told the committee that he would never, no never, accept a call to Luther Place Church. He had one of the largest congregations in the country; he had been offered the chair of religious education in Gettysburg College; and he had been selected for chair in the Lutheran Theological Seminary. Honors were beginning to pour in on him, all unsought, it is said; and, so, why should he accept a call to this church?

Yields on 12th Call.

The call was made, and he refused it. Caesar had the crown offered him thrice but this young minister rejected it eleven times before he was finally overborne. On the twelfth call he said he would come down and look the field over.

Now how did he go about this? He made a visit here and met the official board with whom he would have to act, talking with each one individually, and getting a line on each. He saw the congregation assemble and at worship. He made many inquiries in Washington and away from Washington, all about Luther Place Church. Then he, too, went to the leaders of his church and asked their advice. They told him that Washington was a major field, but a very difficult one. That advice settled the matter with him; and on June 1 last, Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen came here as pastor of a church that has had a glorious history, but had been pastorless for nearly one year.

A native of Troy, N. Y., his parents were immigrants, from Denmark. In that collar and cuff town he grew up, cursed by the awfullest curse that can be bestowed on a youth of high intelligence and ambition—timidity and bashfulness. He would go out of his way to keep from speaking to his intimates—they must surely have been girls, for boys are not often bashful with each other—and one of his early peculiarities was said to be a penchant for window shopping. This was his way of avoiding social contacts. By his own efforts he overcame this defect and now his manners are easy and his social graces exquisite. At 16 he decided to go into the ministry and was sent to the Lutheran College at Gettysburg to equip himself, graduating in letters in 1912 and immediately taking up his seminary course and going through with that.

His First Churches Small.

His first pastorates were small churches, but they must have been successful, for when Dr. H. W. A. Hansen, pastor of the Church of the Messiah at Harrisburg, Pa., was elected president of Gettysburg College, he was called to the vacant pastorate. Six and one-half years there before he came to Luther Place Church—years of hard work, of growth, of a splendid ministry. In that time he built his congregation up from 900 members to 1,400, and most of them went to hear him preach on Sunday night, and practically all of them on Sunday morning.

"I can be a good pastor," said the timid youth—and he is still this side of middle age—"but I am not so sure of myself as a preacher."

This was the urge of the student on him, and he is such a student that he spends every vacation at Columbia University studying. Not many ministers do that. Rabbi Simon, the noted Hebrew minister, who has served his people here for more than 25 years, felt that urge, and he pursued his studies at George Washington University, taking first his master's degree and then his degree in philosophy, and is still impelled by the old, for their minds never close up. They keep them open for ideas—new ideas and old ideas.

As soon as Dr. Rasmussen came he started rebuilding his congregation. Every night in the week until 11 o'clock he and some of his board would go from house to house and from apartment to apartment looking up Lutherans who had no church affiliations. On Sundays his pulpit ministrations drew an increasing congregation, and from these came the names of prospects. The offerings doubled and no mention was made of finances.

Successful Recruiting Program.

When this recruiting program began, the last week in June, it was said that if they got in 30 new members during July that would be a great stimulus to the people, more than any Lutheran church here had ever received in a whole summer. On June 28 two new members were received. This was on a Saturday. The next day at church eight were received. And by Saturday night of that week 40 members had been received, and one week more of the recruiting yet to go.

When that week was up, 71 new members had been received, and on July 13 64 joined the church, a larger number than had ever joined any church here in summer. By July 26 104 new members had been received. During the first two weeks of the program 81 persons were called on and 71 of them secured. During two months of his pastorate 156 recruits for membership have been secured—more, it is said, than any Lutheran church here ever took in in a whole twelve months.

A very comprehensive program has been mapped out by Dr. Rasmussen and his board, to be launched in September. Recruiting will continue. It is said that there are more Lutherans in Washington not members of churches than there are who are members. A check up of the membership of Luther Place Church in July showed that its membership comes from 24 States in the Union and Alaska, and from the following foreign countries: Belgium, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Germany, Austria and Finland.

This foreign population has induced the pastor to undertake to make his church a Lutheran Church of All Nations. In line with this, special services will be held for the different groups in their native tongues, and speakers who speak those tongues will be invited for those special services, and folk customs of their fatherland will be reenacted for them. Senator Peter Norbeck, of Swedish origin, whose children are members of this church and whose father was a Swedish Lutheran minister, will deliver an address on the recent celebration of the 1,000 years of the Iceland Althing, which he attended as chairman of the U. S. Commission.

Along with the rebuilding program will go a welding of the congregation. The new members, in September, will give a reception to the old members, and the minister and his wife will give a reception to the congregation.

The Sunday school will not be neglected. Two unique classes will be formed—a men's Bible class and a women's Bible class, each taught by a board. It is the purpose to get the best teachers of the Bible in the land to teach these classes, and whenever a man or woman of prominence who knows anything about the Bible visits Washington, to invite him or her to lead the class.

But the unique feature—something that every church, it would seem, should have, but so few do—is the nursery, at which mothers can bring their babies and small children and leave them with competent trained nurses for feeding and care and amusement while the mothers go to hear the Word of God expounded.

Luther Place Church has five exits. The main entrance lets the congregation in so that every incomer faces the pews instead of the pulpit. Long ago this entrance was abandoned, which gave rise to the fiction that you go into the church at the back door. When Dr. Rasmussen came here the congregation used the five exits, but with his coming that was changed, and now after the benediction and silent prayer, while the chimes are playing, he walks to one of the exits and all the people go out that door to shake his hand.

"In three years' time our minister will be the vogue in Washington," said one of his members to this writer. So quickly have they grown to love him.

DR. DENNY SPEAKER AT MOUNT VERNON

Bishop Lured From Practice of the Law to Service in the Church.

WAS COLLEGE ATHLETE

One of the greatest preachers in the South and one of the wisest men Southern Methodism has produced, Bishop Collins Denny, will preach at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church twice tomorrow. He is the first of the trinity of bishops who will "sit in" for the pastor, Dr. W. A. Lambeth, while he is recuperating from the heat and the drought.

A native of Winchester, Va., Bishop Denny is one of the noblest sons of the Old Dominion. He was educated at Princeton University, taking both his bachelor's and his master's degree there, and distinguishing himself as a member of a famous football team of his day. The reputation of his prowess with the pigskin followed him around the world, for, after he became a minister, while traveling in Japan with Bishop A. W. Wilson, he met a cultured Japanese at some big official function, who saluted him in chaste English: "I know Mr. Denny well." "Where? When?" "You carried the ball for Princeton, sir." This Japanese saw him carry the ball and never forgot how his Virginia legs ran with him for a notable touchdown.

Graduated at Law.

From Princeton he went to the University of Virginia, where he graduated in the law college, and then to Baltimore, where he began his career at that bar. Here he came directly under the influence of the man who did so much to mold his life, Bishop A. W. Wilson, who, when at the very top of his great career as a preacher, resigned his pastorate, studied law, practiced at the Baltimore bar until he had earned enough money to pay off a brother's unfortunate debts, and then back in the service of the Lord.

While his career did not thus parallel Bishop Wilson's, the young lawyer did, after two years' practice, surrender a lucrative clientage, joined the ministry and has been preaching and teaching ever since.

Chaplain at University.

For several years he was chaplain of the University of Virginia during the period when Prof. Noah K. Davis was the primate in that famous institution, and under him the young minister studied mental and moral philosophy, being perhaps old Noah K.'s prize pupil. At any rate, Vanderbilt University called him from Virginia to the chair of philosophy, and there he taught philosophy and Noah K. to his students for eleven years, until he was made a bishop in 1910.

His life has been filled with abundant labors for his State, for the South, for the Nation and, not least, for his church. One of the great conservative forces in his church, he has fought the rising tide of modernism with voice and pen, and some of his state papers are among the finest memorials of the college of bishops, of which he has for twenty years been secretary.

FOUR MACARTNEYS PREACHING GOSPEL

Church of Covenant Will Hear Pastor's Brother Tomorrow Morning.

SPELL NAME VARIOUSLY

It seems that the whole family of Macartneys are ministers. Three, as stated in this column last Saturday, are not enough. The pastor of the Church of the Covenant has still another brother who is a servant of the Lord.

Two of these brothers spell their names one way and the other two spell it another, but they all had the same wonderful parents, all are covenanters and every one of them was taught the catechism and the Bible by his father and mother. The pastor of the Covenant spells his name McCartney, and so does his brother, the Rev. E. L. McCartney, of Upland, Calif. The pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Pittsburgh, Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, and the pastor of the Vermont Avenue Presbyterian Church, of Los Angeles, the Rev. John Robertson Macartney, cling to the Scotch spelling of their name.

The pulpit of the Covenant will be filled by Dr. Robertson Macartney tomorrow morning. Dr. Macartney is completing an extensive trip through the United States, having visited former charges of Bellingham, Wash., and Waterloo, Iowa, in both of which cities large and attractive church edifices are monuments to his labors. Before coming to Washington last Sunday he visited one of his brothers, Dr. Clarence Macartney, and on July 20 preached for him.

Dr. Boords to Preach At Service for Masons

Open air religious services at Temple Heights tomorrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. John C. Palmer, chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons, will be addressed by the Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Boorde, pastor of Temple Baptist Church; and the music will be under the direction of J. Walter Humphrey.

The officers and members of the following named blue lodges, and of chapters of the Order of the Eastern Star, with their families, will be special guests: National Lodge No. 12, Raymond N. Babcock, master; George C. Whiting Lodge, Herman A. Meyers, master; Arminius Lodge, Theodore Lerch, master, and Petworth Lodge, John B. Broaddus, master; Fidelity Chapter, Mrs. Ruth B. Oscar, matron, Raymond E. Halliday, patron; Miriam Chapter, Mrs. Helen M. Rowan, matron, Ivan J. Dalstrom, patron; Treaty Oak Chapter, Mrs. Lula E. Grosvenor, matron, Steven O. Beebe, patron.

(Pastor, Washington City Church of the Brethren).

ALL THINGS BEAUTIFUL.

"He hath made everything beautiful in His time," said the preacher in Ecclesiastes, and philosophers have ever since been striving to find out what beauty is. For such as have eyes to behold it, beauty is everywhere with its gracious ministry, but it can only be perceived by those who have the beautiful within.

"I pray the prayer of Plato old:
Lord, make me beautiful within."

To all such the earth is full of beauty, whether it be in the springing grass, the blooming flower, the mountain peaks keeping tryst with the stars, the booming roar of Niagara, the deep-toned music of ocean's tides, or the silent glory of the starlit heavens—everywhere are the glory and grandeur of beauty.

Hogarth, the great English satirist and caricaturist, once overheard a young lady express a desire to learn to draw a caricature. He strongly advised her to desist, saying: "By long practice of the art I have lost the enjoyment of beauty. Everything I see has become distorted."

In the recognition and cultivation of a love for the beautiful in nature, art or literature we gain the full richness of life. This is an achievement beside which the mere possession of the gold of a King Midas becomes poor and bare.

In these anxious days, when we are compelled to note the rapid shrinking and vanishing of material values, it will be well to remember that "He hath made all things beautiful in His time."

In the full realization of this great truth, the poorest may become infinitely rich and without it the richest are infinitely poor.

VACATION SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR SEASON

Appropriate Exercises Mark Finals in Church Groups' Summer Work.

HOSPITALS ARE AIDED

The Vacation Church Schools which have been in session all over the city for the past four or five weeks, now are drawing to a close with appropriate exercises.

The Pilgrim Presbyterian Church, under the able leadership of Mrs. Lloyd Harrison, closed its school by presenting a typical day of the regular session. In place of the craft period, Bible pageantry was presented while the craft work was on exhibit. The Book of Ester was most ably portrayed by the older boys and girls.

The Chevy Chase Community Vacation Church School held its closing exercises. First came the kindergarten department presenting its stories and Bible verses in a very unusual way. The Primary Department then presented its program of song, story and Bible pageantry. Next came the Junior and Intermediate groups in a portrayal of the Book of Jeremiah and the scene known as Ruth and Noami. This school is sponsored by the Chevy Chase Wesley Methodist Church, All Saints Episcopal, Chevy Chase Baptist and Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church.

Song, Story and Bible Work.

Calvary Baptist Church closed its school with an hour's program of song, story and Bible memory work. The outstanding feature of this program was the presentation of Paul's Missionary Journey in graphic form by the elder students of the school.

Each of the foregoing schools made their handicraft periods various things that will be usemful to others. The outstanding theme of these Vacation Church Schools is "Doing for Others and Sharing These Gifts With Others." Some time during the session each school has provided the hospital worker of the Federation of Churches with a flower shower.

When the flowers were taken to the hospitals, it was found that vases were scarce, so the schools set to work to provide vases by using mother's old pickle bottles, peanut butter jars or other containers usually thrown away.

These jars have been painted or covered with the linings saved from the envelopes of letters received in the home. Thus the vacation schools have kept the hospitals supplied with fresh flowers and vases to hold them.

Bedside Bags are Made.

Another needed gift for the hospitals are the bedside bags. Many of the older girls were found to be very able seamstresses and enjoyed making these "love gifts" for the sick.

An exhibit will be held in the early fall, in some prominent place, of all the gifts made by the vacation schools and church groups for the use in hospitals.

The Fourth Presbyterian Church in its closing program presented an all-Bible program.

Closing exercises for the vacation Bible school of the Second Baptist Church will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MUSIC filled the air at Mount Pleasant and Lamont streets last night. Passers-by paused, apparently mystified as to where it was coming from.

The source was a radio set in an automobile parked near the corner, but listeners were thrown off the track by the fact that no one was in the machine at the time.

"A rather wicked five-page questionnaire was sent out to several hundred radio dealers," Marshall T. Jones, Department of Commerce, writes in the United States Daily.

We trust that this will not be confused with the vice survey Maj. Pratt is making.

A weak spot in the "Uncle Abe and David" presentation is the fact that practically all the outside character parts are taken by a man who is not able to change his voice sufficiently. His work is excellent, but would be more effective if he did not try to take so many different roles.

SENATOR ARTHUR CAPPER, who apparently runs on high about 19 hours out of every 24, has discontinued his broadcast until Congress reconvenes. The senator will return to Kansas to see how his boys' and girls' poultry clubs are getting along.

During the past twelve years he has loaned these youthful Kansans over a quarter of a million dollars to finance their pig and chicken raising, without one bad debt resulting.

Although Senator Capper has been doing his radio work without the aid of press agents or forced publicity, he has built up a Nation-wide audience and developed into a first class broadcaster, being among the best three in the Senate, we should say.

CKAC at Montreal will again act as the key station when the first of a new series of dance programs by Jack Denny and his Mount Royal Orchestra is broadcast tonight (WMAL, 6:15 o'clock).

With 21 British Broadcasting Co. stations carrying Lindbergh's address next Friday he will be heard all over England to say nothing of the remote portions of the world the short waves may reach.

WASHINGTONIANS sometime ago learned with surprise that the hobby of a famous scientist at the Smithsonian Institution was digging tunnels. Almost as unusual is the avocation of Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission.

"I am all covered with paint and full of splinters," the general remarked the day after his return from a vacation period at his Lake George camp. "I have been painting window sashes."

Norman Thomas, former candidate for President on the Socialist ticket, has been having fun with the New York radio stations, but at their expense.

Following a speech defending his administration Mayor Walker made over three stations, WJZ, WOR and WNYC, the Socialist wrote to these stations asking for an opportunity to reply. WOR complied immediately.

The other two, according to Thomas, ignored his request. Later, however, it was announced that Mr. Thomas had also been invited to use WJZ, and the impression is that though WNYC is municipally owned it also will capitulate.

Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, August 1.

THERE isn't any reason why you can't use and use your clothes! That's where it pays to get good materials, you see, for the materials last when the styles change. I've confessed before to that awfully 'spensive crepe de chine that made me a white summer dress, then was dyed yellow, then made a costume slip that lasted two more years when I tired of the dress, and finally evolved into two pairs of stepins that I still wear—and I bought that material six years ago!

When your clothes have very good material in them, there is hardly ever such a change in styles that they can not be made over into more stylish dresses. Or at least slips, or undies.

There is one adverse angle, though, and that is the infallibility of human nature to tire of sameness. That's why I personally don't ever like to put a winter dress away for the following winter, nor a summer one for the following summer, unless I can see the possibilities in it of being changed by making over, or combining with new material, or dyed. Naturally, none but very good materials take kindly to dyeing.

Ah, me, you might have known! I've been at it again—you know, preparing for that September trip to New York—and having my summer things that I am almost through with here, made over into this and that for fall. There is the rose crepe dress, that becomes the backbone of a dressy street ensemble, and the—well, you can just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet I am just this minute sending to the printer. In it I tell you all about how I am having my summer dresses made over into fall and winter ones, dyeing some, combining others with a new material, making skirts only out of others that were dresses, and blouses only out of some others. You will be interested in this leaflet, I will promise you, so better make out the envelope now before it slips your mind.

Still time to send for a leaflet with the modernistic flower design to paint or embroider, the one that has valuable beauty hints in it, you know!

"Mrs. 77 Years Young" says she likes to read this column, even though the styles don't mean a thing to her. And so that made me happy, and I am glad she was thoughtful enough to tell me about it.

Another nice reader writes that she makes some awfully good-looking sofa pillows for hubby's den out of his old neckties crazy-quilt wise. I thought I would just pass that idea along—you know, you just rip the linings out of the ties, clean them in gasoline or soap and water, iron, cut away all the worn part, and make your pillows, or a quilt, for that matter, out of the good pieces that are left.

Don't forget how glad we are to get such suggestions and ideas from our readers, to pass on to the others!

Do look in the Sunday Post tomorrow for the weekly Dare fashion letter. We're sure you'll enjoy it.

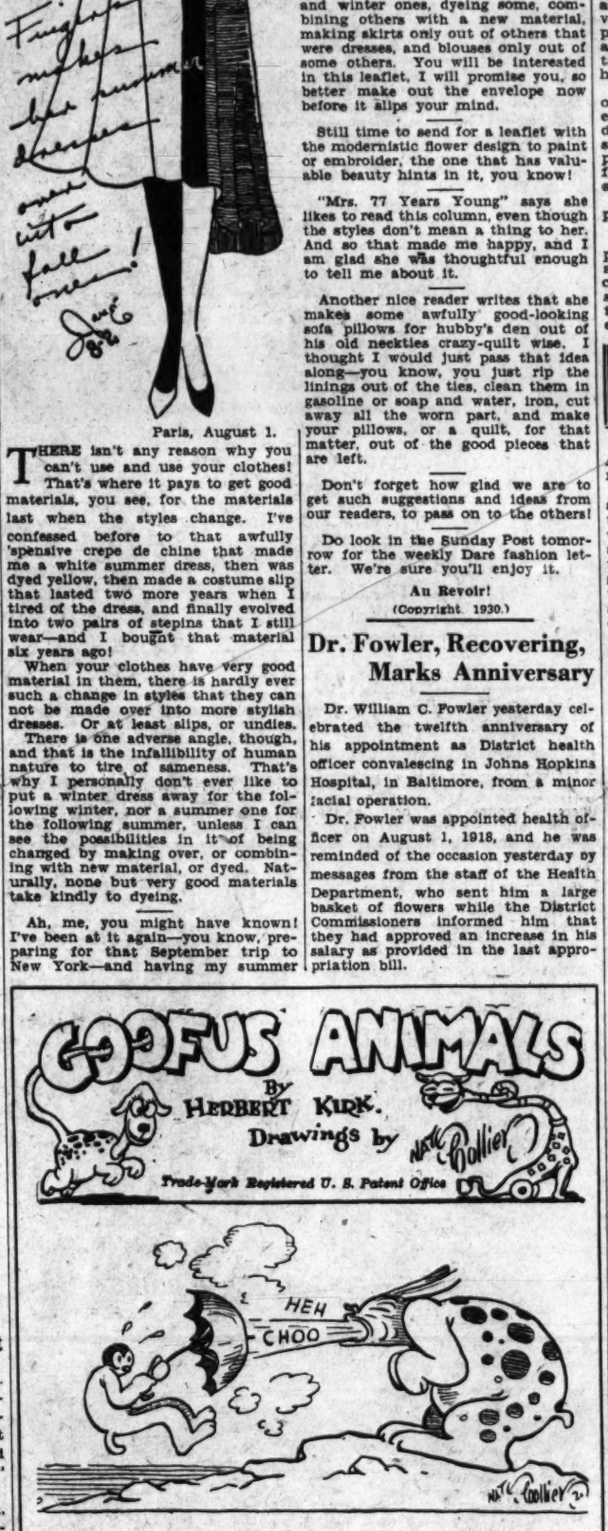
Dr. Fowler, Recovering, Marks Anniversary

Dr. William C. Fowler yesterday celebrated the twelfth anniversary of his appointment as District health officer convalescing in Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, from a minor facial operation.

Dr. Fowler was appointed health officer on August 1, 1918, and he was reminded of the occasion yesterday by messages from the staff of the Health Department, who sent him a large basket of flowers while the District Commissioners informed him that they had approved an increase in his salary as provided in the last appropriation bill.



A Hint to Goofus Sneezers

The politest beast is the Goofus Yeast
Who knows just when to rise,
Just what's correct
And circumspect
Like when to roll one's eyes.
What fork to use—what knife to choose
When eating soup or peas
But she can't learn
To face astern
When she's about to sneeze!

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

YOU may not have noticed it, but the world stopped moving for a minute at 2 p. m., yesterday while Vice President Curtis, out in the old home town of Topeka, Kas., pressed a button that did something or other toward putting the Warner Brothers' Silver Anniversary Celebration in motion throughout the United States.

In the Earle Theater, where I happened to be at the moment, it brought a large audience to its feet to hear the orchestra play "The Star Spangled Banner" and Eddie Canter out on the stage again to cut the birthday cake and present the small piece to Commissioner Luther Reichelderfer—who had just made a brief and graceful speech—while he kept the big one for himself. You would have died!

There were a considerable number of screen trailers run telling all about this and that in connection with the Anniversary Month—which is August—and the uses that were to be made of the receipts of the first Anniversary Month performance. They go—and it should be a tidy sum—to the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities, the United Hebrew Relief Society and the Salvation Army.

There was also a bill of stage and screen features that was a corker, concerning which you will be advised in full in the complete department of motion picture reviews published in tomorrow's Sunday Post, five cents at all newsstands.

Order your copy now!

Eddie Cantor, the millionaire melodist and monologist, incidentally, appeared to be as robust as his bank account, which is reputed to be very, very robust, indeed. He looked 20 pounds heavier, 20 laughs happier and 20 shades darker—he is that tanned—than the last time I saw him.

His act, in which he is assisted by one Mr. Mencher, accompanist, who enjoys all his jokes and fingers a devastating syncopated spinet, was slightly curtailed at yesterday's first performance, I suspect, to afford time for Commissioner Reichelderfer's disappointment over the cake cutting.

Nothing like that, however, happened to the audience's applause.

Throughout the period of these impressive ceremonials those in attendance were wondering what might be causing the auditorium to be so persistently penetrated by the rythmic thud of many hammers, but upon emerging found the solution simple. The Warner boys were tacking up miles of silver laurel leaves about the facade, marquee and spacious promenades of a theater that for a month has become emblematic of their comprehensive contributions to the cinema.

By now the place must look right spiffy!

It no doubt is a species of heresy to suggest anything so iconoclastic, but in the advance trailer on "The Dawn Patrol," next screen attraction at the Earle, which for some reason was shown twice while all the rest were being shown once, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., seemed to be doing a more forceful bit of character delineation than Richard Barthelmess himself, ostensible star of the picture.

In "The Dawn Patrol," John Monk Saunders, the author, apparently has completed a trilogy of stirring air subjects, "Wings" and "The Legion of the Condemned" being the other two. He, you know, is Mr. Fay Wray.

With the departure of Sam Jack Kaufman and the nonarrival as per original schedule of Frankie Jenks, his successor as master of ceremonies at the Fox, Leon Brusiloff, conductor of the orchestra, once more is stepping into the breach to pilot Fanchon & Marco's "Peasant" idea through the shoals of 40 minutes of stage running time this week.

It is stated by the management that Mr. Jenks, whom they diffidently describe as "a youthful bucko with lots of gusto, pep and magnetic personality," will positively put in an appearance next week when the F. & M. "Coral Idea" will be the stage attraction.

This arrangement will get Frankie off to stiff competition, since that same week Jack Pepper, a Washington favorite, and Bobby Gillette will divide the duties of m. c. between them at the Palace.

This will be Jack's first appearance on a Washington stage since his long and successful engagement at the Earle Theater, although his name and memory have been kept fresh in the flapper consciousness by the frequent rumors of marital rifts—and worse—between him and Ginger Rogers, his wife, who is coming along on the screen, what with one swell assignment after another.

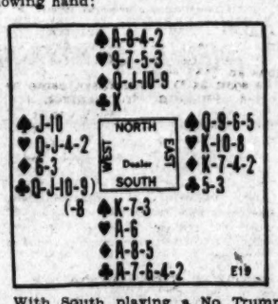
They laughed when she said her name was Ginger Pepper!

Lucky she didn't marry Roscoe Ailes and get pinched for a setup!

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)

A rule that one often hears quoted at both the Auction and Contract table is: "Always cover an honor with an honor." Although accepted and followed by many, this rule is unsound; if it provided that a player generally should cover an honor with an honor, it still would be unsound; but if it were "sometimes cover an honor with an honor" it would be sound. A good rule for the novice is: Cover an honor with an honor when you can see that doing so may gain a trick for your side; otherwise play your lowest on an honor led on your right. Look at the following hand:



With South playing a No Trump contract and the Queen of Clubs led, dummy would win with the King and lead the Queen of Diamonds. If East covered the Queen with the King, or even if he ducked the first trick and covered the Jack (supposing it to be led next), the Declarer would make game without difficulty by taking two Spades, one Heart, four Diamonds and two Clubs. But if East play small on three of North's Diamond leads, the Declarer's winning would be reduced by one Diamond trick and he would fail to go game. East would have no excuse for covering an honor with an honor as he has no reason to assume that so doing would make up a trick either in his or West's hand.

The vitality of this "Always cover an honor with an honor" saying seems inexhaustible. It dates back to the days of Whist, and may be one of the unrecorded remarks of Ananias. It has cost innumerable tricks and Declarers have obtained great benefit from knowing that a player who does not cover does not have an honor. Make it as hard for the Declarer as you can; only cover when the failure to do so may cost a trick.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF AUGUST 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:15 p. m. and 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., and 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.

You will probably ask for flowers and be given seeds on this date but time will reveal that Fate has neither been unkind nor unmindful of your welfare at this period of your life. Adventures in friendship.

The child born on this August 2 will be given a considerable amount of determination, and it will not be easily thwarted in its purposes. It will be equable, friendly, companionable, musical and cheerful. It will be slightly self-centered.

You are not a scholarly person, but you are superficially very interesting, a good parlor entertainer, and a splendid amateur in many things. The world amuses you, pleases you, and satisfies you. The role of light comedy suits you admirably, and you are proud of being a low-brow. Highbrow masterpieces and tastes give you moral indigestion. You could never stand the strain of trying to live up to any reputation.

You do not have to examine the root, stem and flower of things to satisfy your thirst for knowledge; sometimes the bud or even the fragrance is enough for you, and you pass content with what you have received. You are clever enough to make your own happiness and to attain an average of contentment.

You seldom leave your audience low in spirits, you have the gift of lifting them out of themselves, or making them see the ordinary incidents and things in a new or more colorful light. You are not exact enough for important detail work, but you are clever in turning things off in the bulk. Your place is in a business world, where you can rely upon able assistants, with you as a manager. You know above all else how to handle people and how to get the best out of them. You have homely habits, and are fond of ease and comfort. You have a very firm moral nature. It makes you very unhappy to have those whom you love away from you, and in this respect you are a little too possessive.

During the World War he was commissioned a captain in the Signal Corps, and rose to a lieutenant colonelcy, the rank he continued to hold in the Reserves. He was stationed here throughout the war.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary B. Evans; his mother, Mrs. Olivia W. Evans, and a brother, Guy P. Evans. He was a member of the Alexandria-Washington Masonic lodge.

MARTIAL LAW IN HANKOW AS COMMUNISTS ADVANCE

reared barbed-wire defenses, while enlarged patrols closed and guarded 10-foot iron gates of streets leading to the native city. Machine guns were manned.

Information that Japanese consular officials had been instructed to protest against the Changsha incident reserving "the right to demand indemnities for losses Japanese suffered therein," brought this comment from Foreign Minister Wang at Nanking:

"The Nationalist government will hold itself fully responsible for the regrettable occurrences at Changsha."

Tale of U. S. Missionary.

A city aglare with ghastly fires, and a country without government or control, was described today by the Rev. W. H. Lingle, American missionary, who fled the city of Changsha during its recent sacking by Communists.

Nearly 70 years old and a worker in China 40 years for the American Northern Presbyterian Mission, Mr. Lingle lost everything except the clothing he wore. He had been stationed at Changsha many years.

Saying he believed he was the last foreigner to leave, Mr. Lingle continued:

"Systematic burning of all government buildings was begun Monday. Then followed the organized looting and burning of mission properties. The American Episcopal Mission was burned late Monday. Communists broke into our premises Monday night and began systematic robbery. They were still looting when, fearing discovery, I was forced to leave.

"I boarded the American gunboat Palos at 2 a. m. Tuesday. Commander Tisdale and other friends aboard were glad to see me. They feared I had been captured. Tuesday evening I was transferred to the British gunboat Aphis with 47 other refugees and brought to Hankow."

"There is no transportation from Changsha. The railroad is cut and the river too low for steamer operation. Thousands of Chinese are willing to pay any price to get out of the city.

"All form of government has broken down and disappeared. When we left, the mob—Communists, bandits, robbers, call them what you will—were in control."

Mr. Lingle before coming to China resided at Hillsboro, Ill., and Richmond, Va. He said a brother still lived at the latter place.

(Associated Press.)

American Minister Johnson, at Peiping, informed the State Department last night he had suggested to the Nanking government that prompt and effective action be taken for the relief of Changsha to check possible destruction of American property in that city.

Earlier in the day American Consul Richard P. Butrick at Hankow informed the department he was again urging Americans in the provinces of Hupeh, Hunan, Honan and Kiangsi to withdraw to places of safety. The circular letter he sent them stressed the growing severity of Communist activities in remote places and the extreme danger of remaining at exposed points.

The Johnson note stated that the American Government reserved all rights with respect to all losses or injuries already suffered by Americans or which they may suffer by reason of disturbances in Changsha.

The latest information to the American consulate at Hankow stated Changsha was still burning, with some American mission property known to have been destroyed. That of the Standard Oil Co. of New York was reported still intact. The consul reported that looting and destruction was done systematically.

Meanwhile, the Navy Department said two destroyer mine layers, the Hart and Rizal, yesterday were proceeding from Manila in the Philippine Islands to Tsingtao, China.

PRESIDENT NAMES GROUP TO STUDY HOME BUILDING

When he was Secretary of Commerce he sponsored a plan to build apartments for Government employes at $12.50 per room a month, but about this time he had to go away to settle the Mississippi flood problem and the matter sort of petered out.

This will make the eleventh presidential commission supported by private funds. The other ten are requiring about $2,000,000.

Text of Statement.

The President's statement on the subject follows:

"After wide consultation with interested leaders, I have decided to undertake the organization of an adequate investigation and study on a Nation-wide scale of the problems presented in home ownership and home building, with the view to the development of a better understanding of the questions involved and the hope of inspiring better organization and removal of influences which seriously limit the spread of home ownership, both town and country.

"The conference will be organized by a planning committee comprised of representatives of the leading national groups intrested in this field, under the chairmanship of Secretary Lamont. This planning committee will in turn set up Nation-wide subcommittees to determine the facts and to study the different phases of the question.

"The conference will deal with the whole broad question of home construction and home ownership. It will embrace such questions as finance, design, equipment, city planning, transportation, &c.

Financial Question Cited.

"One of the important questions is finance. The present depression has given emphasis to the fact that the credit system in home building is not as soundly organized as other branches of credit. Commerce, industry, installment buying and to a large extend farm mortgages, all have more effective financial reservoirs. There have been months during this depression when shortage of capital available for home building purposes has been so acute that this branch of construction has fallen off greatly, while other forms of credit have been available throughout the depression.

"In order to enable the purchase of homes on what amounts to the installment plan, it is necessary to place first and, often enough, second mortgages. The building and loan associations have performed a great service in this field, but they can not without assistance carry the burden. First mortgages, carried so largely by the savings banks and insurance companies, have been affected by competition with bonds and other forms of investment. Second mortgages, which are also necessary to many people, have, if we take into account commissions, discounts and other charges, risen in rates in many cities to the equivalent of 20 or 25 per cent per annum, all of which not only stifles home ownership, but has added to the present depression by increasing unemployment in the trades involved.

"The finance question, however, is only one of many. Greater comfort and reduction in cost of construction in many parts of the country through improved design, the better layout of residential areas are all of first importance. The expansion and betterment of homes in its bearing upon comfort, increasing standards of living, and economic and social stability, is of outstanding importance.

Make-Up of Committee.

"It is not suggested that the result of the conference will be recommendations for legislation but rather a coordination, stimulation and larger organization of the private agencies. There, however, needs to be a study of the mortgage laws of many States with view to more intelligent attitude to the home builder.

"The heads of the following associations have been asked to act as initial members of a planning committee for the conference:

American Civic Association, American Farm Bureau Federation, American Federation of Labor, American Home Economics Association, American Institute of Architects, Associated General Contractors, Association of Life Insurance Presidents, Better Homes in America, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Association of Builders Exchanges, National Association of Real Estate Boards, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Farmers Union, National Grange, Russell Sage Foundation, Savings Bank Division, American Bankers Association; United States League of Building and Loan Associations, Women's National Farm and Garden Association. Others will be added.

"Mr. John M. Gries, who for several years has been chief of the division of building and housing in the Department of Commerce, will act as executive secretary.

"The date of the conference will be determined by the planning committee. Funds have been provided privately to cover the entire research and other activities of the conference."

DISASTER NEARLY WRECKED AIRSHIP

BIG HOLE TORN IN FABRIC

of visitors stood underneath and gaped upward at a still uncovered opening a few feet distant from the bulging patch over the larger tear.

During the hours that the riggers and other members of the crew were bending all their efforts to closing the gap in the side of the R-100, the ship was dodging about the sky between thunderstorms and for a time even drifting backwards as the engines were stopped, either in an effort to make the repair men's task easier, or in fear that further breasting of the wind until repairs were made might increase the damage already done.

American reporters who viewed the patched R-100 today were reminded of a similar and even more dangerous mishap that befell the German dirigible Graf Zepelin on the first of its flights to America.

On that occasion a storm in mid-Atlantic ripped an even larger hole through its fabric than the one in the R-100. Just as was the case today, it was not known until after the ship landed and was seen at close quarters that it had really been in more serious danger than its officers had announced, or probably even realized themselves, the men who sail the skies being accustomed to facing with a shrug and a laugh situations that make the ordinary groundling tremble with fear.

The 44 men on the R-100 debarked almost as soo nas it was secured to the mooring mast this morning. They were all given a day's liberty and the ship was turned over during refueling to a detachment of the crew sent over here from England several months ago. Next week there begins a two-week program of receptions and flights around Canada, and then the great ship, repaired and ready once more to thunder down the highways of the sky, will take off for the return journey to its home port in England.

Secretary Adams said yesterday that facilities at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., are available for use of the R-100, "if required," to repair damage to the dirigible by its trans-atlantic flight.

Secretary Adams said the State Department, on behalf of the Navy, had informed the Canadian Minister to that effect.

NEW "LUNG" RESCUES MEN IN SUBMARINE

emergency hatch with the aid of the "lung."

The craft was submerged to a depth of 45 feet in the Thames River harbor. Lieut. Momsen, the three movie men and the ten men who took part in the experiment occupied a small compartment of the submarine. The test escapes were successful, but each time a man left the submarine a certain amount of water gushed into the compartment. When all ten had "escaped" the water in the compartment had risen to the waist level of the remaining four. Specially designed apparatus to expel the water temporarily failed and a sudden lurch of the S-4 so tilted the craft that the water reached batteries used for the movie sound apparatus. Chlorine gas fumes were released which quickly filled the compartment.

Lieut. Momsen had some extra "lungs" with him. These were quickly donned by the four and through the use of them they were able to remain for fifteen minutes in the atmosphere of deadly gas.

By that time Lieut. Norman F. Ives, in command of the S-4, was able to right the craft and bring it to the surface. Hatches were opened and the four trapped men stepped out. Only Mr. Fernandez suffered any ill effects. He had been a little slower than the others in adjusting his "lung." A few moments in the fresh air, however, completely revived him.

WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1930. 9

SADDENED NATS FACE YANKS IN TWIN BILL TODAY

Westbrook Pegler Says

JUST to keep the record straight: Trudy Ederle did not go deaf swimming the English Channel in August, 1926, but was almost deaf when she shipped for France to make that attempt, which was her second. She had spent hundreds of hours in the water, training and competing, mostly as an amateur, and her hearing had been almost destroyed by the action of the sea on her eardrums.

The modern swimmers, who plow along with their heads almost submerged, run greater risks of deafness than the old-timers who swam with a high freeboard and with their heads somewhat upraised after the manner of a snake. Trudy used the trudgeon, or crawl, in racing, and did not vary her stroke once between Gris Nez and Kingsdown.

Her ailment seemed progressive, and she probably would have been no better today even if she had not swum the Channel in 1926. She received much medical treatment before she went to France the second time, and at that time she was in such bad shape that, like most persons who are unable to hear well, she generally spoke in a slightly modified bawl. When, at table on the Berengaria, bound for France, she asked for boiled mutton or roast beef rare, she boomed her desires in such a thundering bellow that the passengers at the tables forty yards away thought "Wild Will" Lyons had somehow stowed away and crawled out of concealment demanding rations.

Senator Lyons Is Huckster.

Senator Lyons, by the way, is not a statesman by trade but a cloak-and-suit huckster, who puts in most of his time touring the old horse and buggy routes of the mountain and desert States peddling consignments of peg-top pants with four-inch cuffs and jackets with half belts in the back to crossroad emporiums, which, in turn, inflict them on innocent rustics, miners and construction hands who think they are keeping up with Bond street.

The senator was once the official best friend of Jack Dempsey, and it did him no hurt in his calls on the hinterland trade to flash his gingersnap watch engraved with the legend, "To my pal, Senator Wild Will Lyons, from Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world."

Will is a man of rising 70 years, with a remarkably accurate and fixed white blaze running fore and aft through his hair, which is astonishingly black and glossy on a man of his many semesters. Once, years ago, long before Eugene Field covered the drama at the Tabor Grand in Denver, Will was elected to the Colorado State Senate by a careless or humorously inclined constituency and, unable to take a joke, he has been running for public office periodically ever since.

Puts in to New York Quite Often.

Will puts into New York for a month or so two or three times a year to dig up samples of the styles of 1902, '03 and '04 for his clientele, and when here he has a tendency to rear up and get forensic on political topics when he has dined well in a public place in the company of public persons, many of whose friendship he enjoys. If he were a younger man today he might go far in the political affairs of the Nation, for he is very agile and ambidextrous on hot controversial matters, being a friend and defender of Al Smith, James J. Walker and Jim Farley, but also in good standing with the Colorado Ku Klux element. He is also sopping wet as to personal belief and practice, but a constitutional dry and a servant of the Antisaloon League's will in Colorado.

The Senator broke with his pal, Jack Dempsey, after Dempsey had ceased to be heavyweight champion of the world, over a matter of a campaign contribution, he wishing to run for some office, and Mr. Dempsey, out of consideration for his home State, refusing to abet him in this threat against the peace and dignity of Colorado. For quite a spell thereafter they did not speak as they passed by, which was no hardship to Mr. Dempsey, but I believe they are speaking nowadays again. That is to say, the Senator speaks, conversation being always one-sided when he is a party thereto.

Dempsey Denies He Was Hobo.

Dempsey incidentally, denies that he ever was a hobo, but explains that in his younger days he and most other surplus field hands of his home region made a practice of hopping from job to job within a radius of two or three States in or upon or under box cars. He insists that he never shaved with a chunk of bottle glass or cooked his coffee in a can at a jungle campfire along the right of way.

As an athlete, he can not be ranked within the first 50 that this country has produced, for he fought no long fights, and in his whole career as champion, from July 4, 1919, to September 22, 1926, he beat only five out of six opponents, including three set-

Miss Krucoff Gains Finals For Title

Faces Miss Wakeford Today in Defense of Net Crown.

Beats Mrs. Martinez in Three Sets in Semifinals.

FRANCES KRUCOFF, women's tennis champion of the District of Columbia for three years, and Marywill Wakeford will play for the 1930 title at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the Columbia Country Club courts as the result of semifinal victories gained by each yesterday.

In earning the right to meet for the crown, both girls overcame worthy opposition yesterday, but were so exhausted by their efforts that the semifinal doubles matches in which both were to participate had to be postponed. The doubles affairs will be staged tomorrow, with the semifinals listed to begin at 11 a. m. and the final match at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Miss Reba Kirson were the victims of superior tennis yesterday afternoon as they fell before Miss Krucoff and Miss Wakeford, respectively. The first-named, playing some of the best tennis of her career, kept the champion stepping from beginning to end, which the scores of 6—3, 5—7, 6—4 indicate, while the little Baltimore miss waged a far more stubborn battle than the 6—1, 6—3 scores would indicate.

Wage Battle From Baselines.

Employing hard, sure-driving tactics to keep each other on the baselines, Mrs. Martinez and Miss Krucoff waged a terrific battle which was in doubt until the tenth game of the third set when the former failed on a return, to give Miss Krucoff the match.

The champion gained an early lead in the first set, but faltered slightly in the second. Tying the score at 2-all after Miss Krucoff had taken the first two games, Mrs. Martinez took the lead for the first time in the match by annexing the fifth game only to see the score tied at 3-3 and again at 5-5. Here, the challenger ran off two quick games to square the match.

For a while, it appeared as if the titleholder might be dethroned as the plucky Spaniard again rallied after Miss Krucoff had taken the first two games in the last set to forge into a 4-to-2 lead. Here championship caliber was evidenced, as Miss Krucoff scored numerous placements to overcome her disadvantage, while making nary an error. Mrs. Martinez, unwilling to concede defeat made a desperate attempt to tie the last game with the score 40-love against her, but after winning 2 points in succession, banged into the net to give her opponent the match.

Miss Wakeford Able To Rally in Crises.

In earning the right to meet Miss Krucoff for her title today, Marywill Wakeford went into her match, not at all perturbed by the fact that her opponent, Reba Kirson, had only the day before defeated "Jo" Dunham, second ranking player of the tourney.

While many of the games went to deuce, Miss Wakeford continually found the power and ability to get the points when the getting meant wins and slowly, but surely drew away from the little Baltimorean. Inclined to wildness throughout, Miss Kirson found difficulty in keeping her balls in the court and the constant steadiness of her foe helped her morale not at all.

With victory almost certain for the Washington girl, Miss Kirson waged a desperate attempt to tie the match in the last two games of the second set, carrying the game to deuce three times in the seventeenth and four times in the eighteenth, but each time Miss Wakeford scored the final two points to take the games.

Maycita de Souza, Dorothy Kingsbury, and Betty Whitfield were victorious in the consolation tourney, although the second-named gained her triumph by a default.

Hallahan Yields 4 Hits; Cards Down Reds, 10-1

Cincinnati, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The Cardinals, behind the four-hit pitching of Wild Bill Hallahan, today came out of a three-weeks' slump during which they lost many games by one-run margins and pounded out a 10-to-1 victory over the Reds.

Red Lucas was easy for the St. Louis sluggers who touched him for a run in the first inning and drove him from the mound in the fourth with extra base hits. Meanwhile, Hallahan held the Reds to two hits in the first eight innings.

The Reds, league leaders in fielding averages, put up one of their worst defensive games of the year and made four errors.

Vines Beaten By Wood in Three Sets

Pasadena Star Bows, 6-2, 6-2, 6-0, as 1,000 Gasp.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 1 (A.P.)—Sydney B. Wood, jr., 18-year-old former resident of Pasadena, Calif., won the Seabright tennis bowl today in a spectacular upset victory over Ellsworth Vines, jr., another 18-year-old star from Pasadena, in straight sets, 6—2, 6—2, 6—0.

Wood, who now calls New York his home, disposed of Vines in exactly 47 minutes in a match that was a distinct shock to the experts who had picked Vines as an almost certain winner.

Vines' rating as an overwhelming favorite was due to his triumphs over Frank Shields and Frank Hunter in the Meropolitan Turf Court championships last week and his successive victories over Shields, Richard N. Williams and Hunter in the Seabright Invitation.

But today Vines made more errors than he had scored placements in previous matches. From the outset Wood played a calculating game that had Vines baffled. Wood's "soft" shots forced Vines into frequent nets and outs.

Gallery Stunned by Lack of Rallies.

The gallery was stunned by the lack of sensational rallies and many wondered if Vines had played too much tennis the last two weeks. But the real fact of the matter seemed to be that Wood would give his rival no chance to set the pace. He himself laid the plan of hitting easy shots in order to baffle Vines. He succeeded so well that he allowed the Metropolitan Turf Court champion only four games in three sets.

Before the match young Wood told the Associated Press he had hopes of winning but expected a hard afternoon. When he had completed the job in straight sets, he remarked:

"It was much easier than I expected. I planned to play my shorts soft, because I know enough about my own game to appreciate that my drives might have been set-ups for Vines."

Wood Enjoys Victory.

Young Wood, who has played on foreign courts and on the Center Court at Wimbledon, took his victory easily and seemed to enjoy the admonitions of photographers and the pleas of eager autograph hunters.

The women's doubles title went to Edith Cross, of San Francisco, and Mrs. L. A. Harper, of Los Angeles, who played superb tennis to overwhelm the Palfrey Sisters, Sarah and Mianne, of Brookline, Mass., in straight sets, 6—4, 6—2.

Tomorrow finals in women's singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles will be played. Miss Cruickshank will face Mrs. Harper in the women's singles, and Richard N. Williams and Hall battle Wood and Frank Shields.

Whitehill Wins Seventh In Row From Chicago

Detroit, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—A barrage of 17 hits which went for 29 bases gave the Tigers an easy 12-to-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the first of a four-game series here today.

While the Tigers were getting to Dutch Henry for six hits in the first and second innings to give him his fifteenth defeat of the season, and maltreatng his successor, Earl Whitehill was holding the Sox to eight hits and accumulating his seventh consecutive victory.

Coe Filly Wins Handicap in Gallop

Closes Fast to Defeat Goose Egg Easily by 1½ Lengths.

The Beasel and The Spare Used Up in Early Running.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—W. R. Coe's Conclave, medium of a heavy plunge, was an easy winner of the Test Handicap, a seven-furlong sprint for fillies here today. The Greentree Stable's Goose Egg was second and Gifford A. Cochran's The Beasel, third. The Sagamore Stable's The Spare was fourth.

Conclave was heavily supported, opening at 15 to 1, drifting to 20 to 1 and finally closing at 10 to 1. Lyons had the mount and this youngster rode a perfect waiting race on the filly. The Beasel and The Spare raced themselves into defeat in their attempt to gain the lead. The Beasel finally gained it, but it was her undoing.

The pace was very fast, the half being run in 0:46 2-5 and the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5. However, while they were racing their heads off, Lyons, on Conclave, bided his time. He brought the Coe filly to the outside and closing very fast in the final three furlongs, drew away to win by one and a half lengths. Goose Egg beat The Beasel three lengths for the place. The winner received $3,475.

Jockey Ellis had his shoulder broken when his mount, Blixtra, fell in the first race. Jockey McDermott, who rode Silver Canopy, was held responsible for the crowding and suspended for three days.

Miss Bess Repeats At Arlington.

Chicago, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Miss Bess, the 3-year-old bay filly by Coventry—Princess Royal from W. S. Dudley's Stable, racing in her best form, registered her second straight victory when she won the Wisconsin Purse, the featured number on today's card at Arlington Park. Who Win, from J. J. Coughlin's Stable, was second, and Stop Gap, from O. W. Lehmann's string, was third. Miss Bess covered the distance in the fast time of 1:36 1-5.

The event was an allowance affair for 3-year-olds over the mile journey and was worth $1,300 to the Dudley Stable. Miss Bess, the heavy public choice, paid off at $4.92 to $2 in the mutuel machines.

Although pocketed on the rail during the first half mile, Miss Bess worked her way through entering the stretch, went to the outside and in a splendid burst of speed disposed of Stop Gap and Who Win and drew out to win by two lengths. Who Win also closed fast to take the place by four lengths from Stop Gap. The latter was three-quarters of a length in front of Outpost. Uncle Luther and Porphyry finished in the order named.

Valdosta Scores in Latonia Upset.

Latonia, Ky., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Chalk players were handed a blow this afternoon when Roscoe Goose's Valdosta captured the Three Rivers Country Club Purse, a dash of six furlongs, which was the principal attraction of the afternoon card. Bernice Van set the early pace, closely followed by Valdosta. At the turn for home Bernice Van folded up and Valdosta took command to score an easy victory. Vermiculite came from far back to take the place from the tired Bernice Van.

Mrs. Foster was the installed choice, but the best she could do was fourth. Valdosta was ridden by Jockey R. Yelton, and paid his backers $20.44 for each $2 invested, and ran the furlongs in 1:14 flat. Six started.

NEW VIRGINIA FIELD NEAR COMPLETE

Work Rushed in Dry Weather; Ready by Thanksgiving.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 1.—Virginia's new athletic stadium, made possible by a gift of $300,000 from Frederic W. Scott, rector of the university, is now rapidly assuming shape. Prolonged dry weather has made it possible for work to be rushed and the reasonable expectation is that the field will be ready for the Virginia-Carolina game on Thanksgiving Day.

Crews of men are working with four steam shovels in night and day shifts to complete the excavation, which is about three-fourths done. The fills are also about three-fourths completed. Half of the drains for the playing field have been laid and the remainder are being rapidly installed. In all, 200 men are employed on the job.

Concrete construction has been started on both the east and west stands. Cement supports for the seats have been put on the west side. The ends of the playing field will soon be terraced and the bowl will then begin to assume shape. As soon as the actual playing field is finished, Bermuda grass will be sown, as it grows very rapidly.

Plan to Make Stadium Beautiful.

Frederic W. Scott, the donor, has been giving much personal attention to the work. He has made frequent trips here from his summer home, Royal Orchards, atop the Blue Ridge Mountains, 20 miles away. He is determined that this stadium shall not be merely a place where a large crowd can be accommodated to see a game. He is taking great pains to have it constructed in such a way as to be beautiful.

The State highway department has agreed to build a connecting link between two State highways that pass through the University grounds. This will do much toward solving the traffic problem when the stadium is opened.

This half mile of roadway will connect on the north with the Jefferson highway, route 39, and on the south with the Seminole trail, route 28. It will pass close by the stadium site. In order to maintain an even grade it is possible that the new road may go through an underpass below the McCormick road leading to the observatory. If this is done it would be possible, on crowded football days, for one stream of traffic to move toward Richmond and Washington over the McCormick road, while another takes the new route toward Staunton and the Valley. Still a third uninterrupted stream could pour out toward Lynchburg and on to North Carolina.

Carnera to Get Extension Of Stay, Belief After Quiz

(Associated Press.)

THE human Alp from Italy, Primo Carnera, showed a group of feminine fight fans and a Labor Department Board of Review yesterday why his manager thought he should have more time in the United States.

He displayed his towering physique the immense feet and the huge hands that have combined to make him an uncomfortable ring antagonist—but, aside from this, he confined his own arguments to a broad smile.

"He is the man who fights; I say hit and he hits," explained Leon See, his manager.

Mr. See volubly joined in the contention of Representative Hartley of New Jersey, that sporting interests of the United States required that Carnera be granted a time extension of three or four more months to complete his campaign for a title bout.

A vigorous denial of any unethical conduct in the ring was entered for him and for his manager; it was pleaded that his earnings were helpful to charity and his exhibitions educational. Advance dates made for his fistic appearances in Atlantic City and Detroit during coming weeks were cited.

No hostile questions were put to the Carnera group by board members, nor was any testimony introduced attacking his right to an extension of stay.

The decision was taken under advisement by Labor Department officials but the belief prevailed that Carnera would be given a six months extension of his time for leaving the country.

Macks Plan Games on Sunday In Camden, N. J., With New Park

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The management of the world's champion Philadelphia Athletics is considering a proposition to play Sunday Baseball in Camden, N. J. Regular games, which are prohibited in this city by the Sunday laws of 1794, would be played if the plan is acted upon favorably.

This was revealed tonight by Charles S. Gartling, counsel for the baseball club, upon his return from Atlantic City, where he discussed the question with John D. Shibe, vice president of the Athletics.

A site has been selected, he said, which is within 10 minutes of the Philadelphia City Hall, and proposals are being acted upon that will permit construction of a park with a seating capacity greater than the present Athletic's park.

Ruth Clouts 2 For Circuit In 4-1 Win

Drives in 4 Runs as Yanks Beat Boston; Near 2d Place.

Lisenbee Is Victim; Ruffing Strikes Out 9, Yields 2 Hits.

Boston, Aug. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Babe Ruth, whose home-run activities for the past month have been seriously curtailed because of an injured hand, stepped out at Fenway Park this afternoon and collected his thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth home runs and the Yankees took the final game of the series from the slumbering Red Sox, 4 to 1.

Ruth's two mighty drives and Charlie Ruffing's great pitching proved too potent for the Hose. Heinie Wagner's athletes gathered but two hits off Ruffing in the nine innings and nine of his former mates succumbed to his slants via the strikeout route.

It was Ruth's hitting which actually won the game, for the Bambino drove in three of the four Yankee runs with his two homers, the first one coming in the opening inning with the bases empty and the last one coming in the ninth with Charlie Ruffing on second. The game was one of the fastest of the season for the Yankees, only 1 hour and 40 minutes being required to play the nine innings, compared to 2 hours and 45 minutes for the game of the previous day.

Ruffing displayed the best effectiveness today he has shown since he changed uniforms with Cedric Durst. Outside of two hits, three walks and a wild pitch, his performance was faultless, and if it hadn't been for a questionable error by Earl Combs of a hard grounder in right field in the seventh, the Red Sox wouldn't have scored.

Only six Boston players reached first base, two of them on hits, three on walks and one on a fielder's choice. The victory for the Yankees together with the idleness of the Nats today puts the Yanks just one full game out of second place, their objective for the season.

First-Inning Attack By Tribe Beats Browns

St. Louis, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians, scoring two runs in the first inning, maintained an advantage throughout and defeated the St. Louis Browns in the first game of their series here today, 6 to 3.

Holland Stiles, of the Browns, who appeared only in the first third of the initial frame, was the victim. The Indians converted a pair of hits off his delivery into as many runs. Collins and Kimsey followed him on the mound.

Lindstrom's Hitting Defeats Braves, 10-4

New York, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Freddy Lindstrom supplied the big share of the Giants' batting strength today and sent the Boston Braves down to their third straight defeat, 10 to 4. Lindstrom hit two home runs, a double and a single, driving in six runs.

The Braves batted Pete Donohue hard in the first three innings, but he tightened up and allowed only three hits from the fourth to the eighth. They scored again in the ninth after the Giants had a safe lead.

Rabbit Maranville was missing from his shortstop post for Boston due to the death of his father.

SARATOGA GROOM GIVEN 90 DAYS IN SPONGE CASE

Sun Mission Is Victim of Foul Play

Colored Stable Hand Is Sentenced Despite Not Guilty Plea.

Sponge Is Produced in Court; Horse Is Third in Race.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Elijah Johnson was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail here this morning by Judge F. Andrew Hall after being found guilty on trial of an attempt to insert a sponge up the nose of Sun Mission in an effort to insure his defeat in the first race at the track here Thursday.

The Negro stable hand, who had been employed by Harry Jacobs for only a week, pleaded not guilty, but the sponge was produced in court, and on other evidence he was found guilty of what under the law is a misdemeanor.

George H. Bull, president of the Saratoga Association, is hopeful that this quick administration of justice may serve to prevent other attempts of the same kind—a practice not only cruel but one which invites scandal. The prisoner, after pleading "not guilty" refused to talk or to involve the man or men higher up who induced him to attempt the sponging. The threat of punishment would not loosen his tongue, and as a result he landed in jail.

Sun Mission ran third in the first race yesterday and an investigation revealed he racer's nostrils had been plugged with a sponge which cut down his speed. Detectives arrested Johnson, who was working in a stall near the one used by Sun Mission.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime—By H. T. Webster

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Saratoga and Arlington Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The first Saturday of the Saratoga meeting marks the beginning tomorrow of the richer turf prizes with the renewal of the $15,000 United States Hotel stakes for 2-year-olds, which has attracted twelve of the best juveniles, except EQUIPOISE, which is an absentee. The excellent card also includes the first running of the $5,000 Wilson stakes, a memorial race and the $5,000 Shilleiah steeplechase, an old fixture. The track is fast, weather cool.

The juveniles are required to go six furlongs in the U. S. Hotel stakes. George D. Widener's JAMESTOWN, the first juvenile development of this meeting when he won the flash stakes here on opening day in 1:06 1-5, and which his stable regards as a second jack high, will be the favorite and is selected to win. JAMESTOWN beat NEVERFADE and BLACK TYRONE, winning by three lengths.

That performance stamped him as a contender in the ensuing stakes for this division. ORMESBY is rated the contender. He may give JAMESTOWN trouble and his winning would be no great surprise. He has worked impressively, and is owned by the Wheatley stable. The mystery colt in the line-up is the Foxcatcher farm's HURRY ON, which ran third to ROAN ANTELOPE in the seventh race Friday. He is a large colt and this was his first start. He is rated better than he showed by his stable, and the longer distance is in his favor. Few of the offspring of the great English horse, HURRY ON have started in this country. W. R. Coe's colt by that sire which cost over $70,000 bowed a tendon and never started. NOVELIST won Thursday, and may have a chance here.

FIRST RACE — BILLIE LEONARD, which won his last start, appears best in the claiming event, which opens the card, and STURDY probably will be the contender. IRISH MARINE can hold the others safe. The race does not call for much.

SECOND RACE — The Shillelah Steeplechase is an old Saratoga fixture and is second on the program. It has a purse of $5,000, at 2 miles. HUFFY, top weight, is the class of the field, and gets the advantage of a double allowance for apprentice jockey. HERMITAGE, which has won since he was educated for jumping, may be a close contender. FAIR PLAY, which won on opening day because of accidents in the race, should get third money.

FOURTH RACE—NEGOPOLI should repeat in the fourth race, at a mile and a quarter. He won easily at Empire City over Tony Joe. KINGS CHARMER, a recent winner, may prove the contender, with TONY JOE third.

The FIFTH RACE will begin the running of the Wilson Stakes, a memorial for the late R. T. Wilson, long president of this association. It has $5,000 added, and is at the Wilson mile. The field is a strong one, with CARUSO selected to win. FRISIUS is probably best of the others and should get place money. He has been training well. BUCKEYE POET gets in light and should figure in the race. It seems too far for POLYGAMOUS and BATTLESHIP GRAY needs a race.

The SIXTH RACE has a large field of well-bred 2-year-olds, many of them untried. CHRISTMAS is selected to win, and is said to be the best of the J. E. Widener juveniles. A first starter will be the Man o' War colt, WAR, for which the Sagamore Stable paid $45,000 at the Saratoga sales last year. He has worked well and great things are expected of him. BLACK FEATHER has worked sensationally and should figure in the race. TENEZ may have some class, but will have to improve against those mentioned.

ARLINGTON.

This is getaway day at Arlington Park, ending 30 days of successful racing, and is featured by the rich Post and Paddock Stakes for 2-year-olds, with $15,000 added. SISKIN, gold colt by the French invader, Epinard, which has won a good race at Chicago, is selected to win, with dangerous opposition from E. R. Bradley's entry, B'AR HUNTER and BATHORZ, both recent winners. SISKIN, backward in the spring, should develop into a first-class juvenile. UPRIGHT, another good one which won recently, should hold the others safe. The field is large and gets the best in the West.

FIRST RACE—THAT'S IT expected to beat the improved TADDY WAWA in the first race. HOT SHOT third. THAT'S IT is the class, but has not been active for the last weeks.

SECOND RACE—LOUISE WILSON looks best of the platers in the second race. FADDY should be the runner-up. Old JOHN T. D. has a show chance.

THIRD RACE—SAMBO G and QUIBBLER will hook up in the third race, and SAMBO should gather in the purse. LEAH JANE is as good as any of the others.

FIFTH RACE — LADY BROADCAST, fastest filly in the West, which set a record at this track, is confidently selected for the Materon Handicap, fourth on the card, $3,500 added. PANSY WALKER is the natural contender, with the fast filly, ALCIABIDES, as the probable third. LADY BROADCAST has beaten good horses at this meeting in handicaps.

SIXTH RACE—BUDDY BAUER will probably repeat in the sixth race, with GOLDEN PRINCE the contender. ULUNIU seems best of the others and is back in form.

SEVENTH RACE—JACK HASKELL could win the seventh race easily if CABILDO were not in the race. But this is the last day and anything may happen. PRETTY POSE is rated third.

KANNS AT WASHINGTON GROVE.

The S. Kann Sons Baseball Team will meet the Washington Grove Nine on the field of the latter at 3:30 o'clock today. Washington Grove will play the Adamstown, Md., tomorrow at the Maryland stronghold.

23 BATTLES TOMORROW IN SANDLOT LEAGUE RACES

Takoma Nine May Clinch Pennant

Spengler Needs Victory to Win Second Legion Series.

Important Games in District and Prince Georges Races.

THAT old stock sports word—"crucial"—can be used overtime in describing the baseball program that organized sandlot baseball in this section will offer tomorrow. Although only two races can be definitely decided by the outcome of the games, almost every one of the 23 contests scheduled will have an important bearing on the championships.

The two flags that can be clinched in battles tomorrow are those of the Montgomery County League and the second series of the American Legion race.

The Takoma Tigers, leading the Montgomery race, can put the title beyond reach of Chevy Chase when those clubs meet on the Silver Spring field at 3 o'clock. In the legion race, Spengler, by beating Nash can keep its clean slate and enter the playoff with the Sergt. Jasper team, winner of the first series. Should Spengler be beaten the winner of the Sergt. Jasper-Victory game would tie for the lead. These games will be played on the West Ellipse field.

Columbia Heights At Foxall.

In the District unlimited race, the first-place Columbia Heights team travels to Foxall diamond on Conduit Road for a battle. While Foxall is out of the running, Columbia Heights will find the home team eager to revenge a one-run defeat suffered in the first clash.

St. Joseph, last year's champion, will entertain the Burroughs Club on the Plaza. Both clubs are faced with the task of winning to stay in the race.

The Anacostia Eagles, third in the league, will entertain the Aztecs on the Congress Heights diamond. The Eagles tossed away a chance to cut down the lead of Columbia Heights last Sunday and must win today to keep in the running.

2 Prince Georges Contenders in Games.

Two of the three leading contenders in the Prince Georges County race will see action tomorrow. Mount Rainier will be host to Bowie on the Mount Rainier field, while the Dixie Pigs face the Brentwood Hawks on the Seat Pleasant field. Both games are at 3 o'clock. A defeat for either Mount Rainier or Dixie Pigs would be a blow to their title chances.

Hyattsville draws a bye but will not remain idle, meeting the Washington Red Sox in an independent game on the Riverdale field at 2:30 o'clock.

One game has been arranged in the Senior Capital City League. The Nolans and Holy Comforters will meet on the South Ellipse at 1 o'clock. The Nolans can move into a triple tie for second place by a victory.

Eight games will be played in the second series of the junior class race, with the battle of the Acmes and Arlingtons, on No. 3 diamond at 12:45 o'clock, generally looked upon as the outstanding game.

Three contests in the peewee class are scheduled for Ellipse fields today.

Police Beat Soldiers As Wetherall Shines

Dick Wetherall, some 42 years young, came back to the sandlot baseball wars yesterday and surprised the Police Department in general and the Police Nine in particular by holding the Army War College sluggers safe, while the Cops registered a 15-to-1 victory. Sergt. Boyle, who has taken over active charge of the squad, declared Wetherall the winner of a place on the team by his exhibition. Today the Police play the Tile Setters, champions of the Industrial League, at 2:30 o'clock on Fairlawn field. Officer Speiss, in charge of the Police schedule, is looking for more action. Call him at Lincoln 5570 after 6 o'clock.

NOLAN NINE PLAYS.

The Nolan Motor Co. Nine will meet the Army War College Team today on the Barracks field at 3 o'clock. Nolan players are urged to report early.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 1.—Lawrence Jacobs, 18-year-old local boxer, won the welterweight championship of Fort Hoyle, Md., Citizens Military Training Camp.

This youngster is a student in the local high school and lives with his parents at 415 S. Pitt street. He is very popular with his schoolmates and a member of the football squad.

Jacobs, in annexing the championship, defeated contestants from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. Only fifteen Virginians are attending this camp.

This is the second Alexandria boy to win boxing honors in Citizens Military Training Camps. Last year "Gene" Bodie won the heavyweight honors at Fort Eustis, Va.

Manager Sam De Vaughan of the Cardinal Athletic Club has signed "Gloomy Gus" Dodd to pitch for the Breenmen the remainder of the season. Dodd several years ago had a tryout with the Washington Baseball Club.

Billy Wood and Raymond Feverill, two of the leading baseball officials in northern Virginia, have been given the assignment to umpire the Washington Railway-Capital Traction fray in American League Park Saturday.

Manager Charles Corbett of the St. Mary's Celtics scheduled the Union Printers for a contest to be played in Baggett's Stadium Sunday. Terms for this contest were completed with Ed Lowery, Printers' manager, today.

The Colonial Athletic Club will oppose the District Grocery Stores Nine Sunday afternoon on the Colonials Field at 3 o'clock. The invaders won from Hammond's Club in their last appearance here.

Joe Hamilton, St. Mary's Celtics outfielder, is playing with the G. P. O. Nine in the Government League in Washington. Joe is one of the leading hitters on the team.

Athletic Director Robert McDonald, of the Potomac Yard Railway League, states each team has been granted the use of three extra players until the end of the season. McDonald states this new ruling will strengthen the league and add more competition to the games.

Mechanical, Transportation and Inspection teams are tied for first place. The league season will end on August 18.

Alexandria baseball fandom was shocked today to learn of the death of Mrs. Walter Johnson, wife of the manager of the Griffmen. Mrs. Johnson was well known in the city and had attended several functions with her husband.

The Griffs' manager had been expected in Alexandria last Wednesday to address the American Legion Juniors at their banquet, but was unable to do so because of his wife's illness. An expression of sympathy from the Alexandria fans has been sent to Nationals' leader.

But, for this he received at least $1,000,000 an hour, from one source and another, and the only performers that excel him in earning capacity per minute of competition are such horses as Man o' War, Zev and Gallant Fox. However, Dempsey, long after his time in action, is still instantly known to all who see him wherever he goes in this country or abroad, whereas race horses are mere names and reputations, even to the majority of horse track patrons, who could not pick Gallant Fox out of a herd of $500 platers if they were lined up at Saratoga today, without numbers. London, Aug. 1 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—England's campaign in quest of the Westchester Cups, emblematic of the world's polo championships, will officially start tomorrow when 78 of the finest polo ponies in England—some of them probably the best in the world—sail from here for New York aboard the Minnetonka.

Forty-one of the group comprise the official stud of the English International Polo Team, fifteen are privately owned by team members and the others are reinforcing mounts owned by polo fans who will accompany the team. The official ponies are under charge of Capt. Maurice Kingscote. The players will sail next week.

BRIGHTWOOD WINS MEET BY POINT

Barnard Nosed Out; Hamilton Is Third; Raymond, 4th.

PLAYGROUND track teams appear to be more evenly matched this year than usual, and indications point to a low score winning the title in the annual city championship on the Plaza August 28. This was further emphasized yesterday when the Brightwood, coached by George Brandt, nosed out Barnard, coached by Arthur Marks, 56 1-2 to 55 1-3. Other grounds to score were Hamilton, 32, and Raymond, 25 1-3.

The meet was not decided until the final event had been completed. Brightwood held a seven-point lead and Barnard needed first and second in the half-mile to win. Robinson and Tolson made a game effort to take the two necessary places. Robinson won, but Beavers, of Hamilton, came through to beat out Tolson for second place.

Bob Boucher and the Bears brothers, John and Bob, were the outstanding performers for Brightwood. Garner and Tolson starred for Bernard.

AGGIES WIN SECOND SERIES

Agriculture won the second half in the Colored Departmental League by downing Postoffice, 8 to 1.

The Aggies made four hits which were good for eight markers, coupled with errors and bases on balls. After the second inning Baily pitched scoreless ball. Brown led at bat with three hits, including the only extra bases of the game.

The Aggies will meet Municipal, winners of the first series, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

3-YEAR LOW SALES MARK HITS STOCKS

Bear Attack Pushes Utility Issues Down For 1 to 5 Point Declines.

1,090,210 SHARES SOLD

New York, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Stocks drifted downward today in the dullest trading in more than three and a half years. A bear attack on the utilities, which averaged 1 to 5 points lower and on a few miscellaneous issues, constituted the highlights of the price movement.

Sales totaled only 1,090,210 shares, and followers of the market statistics had to go back to November 3, 1926, to find a smaller turnover. On that day the volume was 1,025,100 shares.

Much of the activity was in the stocks of power and light companies, sold on prospective rate reductions, some of which have already been ordered. The heaviness of this group inspired short selling in some of the industrials, but the resistance of the latter proved stronger and the bears thereupon redoubled their efforts against the utilities.

Events in the business world contributed little toward shaping sentiment. The National City Bank's monthly business review reported there was reason to believe that production had fallen well below consumption and emphasized the depression in farm prices as an important influence on trends. Dun's Review said that much of the further recession in business was traceable to normal midsummer curtailment. Readjustments, it found, had made some additional progress "generally in the direction of partial recovery." Bradstreet's said the feature of the week had been the weather damage to crops.

American Telephone Drops.

Early weakness of Consolidated Gas of New York and Brooklyn Union Gas, based on moves for lower rates in the Metropolitan District, sounded the keynote for the day's move in the utilities. Selling soon extended to a wide assortment of these shares which closed virtually at the bottom. Brooklyn Union lost 6 points, recovering more than a point. Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, Electric Power & Light, Public Service of New Jersey, North American and Standard Gas & Electric lost 2 to 3, while American Power & Light was off nearly 5. American Telephone closed 2¼ lower as the rights to new stock at par expired. United Corporation, an important holder of utility stocks, yielded a point. Peoples Gas was an exception, closing 9 points higher.

U. S. Steel, after dropping 2 points, closed unchanged. General Motors moved narrowly, while Radio recovered a 1-point decline. The American Tobacco stocks were strong, the "B" making a maximum advance of 10 points and holding 8 of the gain. J. I. Case and Diamond Match showed individual strength.

Weak spots included both Autostrop Safety Razor and Gillette, which lost more than 3 and 4 points, respectively, on profit-taking. Officials of both companies declined to comment on persistent reports of merger negotiations.

Auburn Auto Off 4 Points.

Auburn Auto lost 4 points on small offerings. Celotex preferred, an inactive, broke 36 points to a new low and the common sagged about 2. There were moderate declines in Westinghouse Electric, United Carbon, Union Carbide, General Electric and United Aircraft. The financial statement of the last-named showed a 50 per cent reduction in net the first six months compared with the 1929 half.

Wheat closed easy at declines of 1 cent a bushel. Smaller export buying was reported. Corn advanced more than a cent a bushel in response to bullish private crop estimates. Shorts covered in cotton on news of lighter rains than had been expected and futures here were up from $1 to nearly $1.50 a bale next.

The month-end passed with no disturbance in the money markets. There was a shading of rates on the long maturity time accommodations.

Thirteen millions in gold were withdrawn for shipment to France tonight on a fast liner, bringing the total of recent exports thither to about $43,000,000. There was further firmness in sterling exchange to the highest quotation since early in the year. The Spanish peseta was soft.

RAIL BONDS MOVE IN NARROW RANGE

Few Electric Light, Traction and Telephone Company Issues Advance.

FOREIGN SECTION ACTIVE

New York, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—In a small turnover characteristic of summer activity, the price movement of bonds was sluggish today and changes were mostly of small consequence. Supported by a nominal demand leading railroad issues rested on their recently acquired laurels and some of the telephone and electric light company issues advanced to the best figures of the year in contrast to the movement of the stocks.

Other domestic corporation bonds were dull and showed no change of trend from the somewhat narrow, but irregular movement apparent throughout the week. With activity in the share market at the lowest point since November, 1926, stock privileges issues received little attention and drifted aimlessly to an irregular close.

The narrow range in which railroads traveled was mirrored in St. Louis San Francisco 4½s, Southern Pacific 4½s (Oregon Division), St. Paul 5s of 1975, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Nickel Plate 4½s, New Haven 4½s, and Pennsylvania 4½s, for which the best demand developed. For the most part fluctuations were confined to ¼ of a point, and all held firm. Despite the small changes, Pennsylvania 4½s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Chicago Union Station 4½s, Canadian National 4½s and Colorado & Southern 4½s reached their best prices of the year. New York Central 3½s and Union Pacific first 4s were easier.

In the utility group Detroit Edison 6s, Consolidated Gas 5½s, New York Telephone 6s and Pacific Gas & Electric 5s were very firm. Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light 5s reached a new high.

Government bonds, principally those of European countries, were the most active in the list of foreign obligations, French issues held firm under moderate accumulation. British, Belgian, Italian and Japanese governments were steady. Further declines occurred in the new Austrian 7s, while the more seasoned loan was firm. Belgian 8s, Chile Mortgage Bank 6½s, Denmark 4½s and Swiss 8s made the most marked advances among active bonds.

Liberty issues were unchanged, while short-term issues yielded small fractions.

BUCK ROGERS, 2430 A. D. — Enemy Crew Vanishes — By Phil Nowlan and Dick Calkins

WE'LL NEED SOME CAN OPENER TO GET INTO THIS BOY!
WE MAY HAVE TO SEND TO OUR SHIP FOR A POWER DRILL—
LOOK! THERE'S A HATCH OPENING UP. THEY'RE GOING TO COME OUT!
WE HAD OVERTAKEN ONE OF THE MYSTERIOUS ENEMY SHIPS IN SPACE, SMASHED ITS OFFENSIVE WEAPON, TIED IT UP WITH MAGNETIC GRAPPLES, AND WERE LEAPING ABOARD.
COPYRIGHT JOHN F. DILLE CO. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
WE WERE READY FOR ANYTHING!
COME ON UP OUT OF THERE!
WE'VE GOT YOU THIS TIME!
NO USE RESISTING!
I LEAPED DOWN INTO THE SHIP.
CHASE THEM OUT, BUCK! NEED ANY HELP? WHAT DO THEY LOOK LIKE?
WH-WHY, THERE'S NOBODY ABOARD THIS CRAFT!

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

BOYS HERE SEIZED WHEN AUTO KILLS BALTIMORE WIFE

Young Matron Dragged by Car for Some Distance, Says Coroner.

WOMAN HAD VISITED ROADHOUSE WITH GIRL

Prisoners' Alibi Accepted Tentatively by Police in Maryland.

With the identifiation of the young woman whose body was found on the roadside near Essex, Md., early yesterday, three youths, suspected of having some connection with the woman's death, were taken to Essex yesterday afternoon by Baltimore County detectives following their arrest in Washington.

The young woman, according to reports from Baltimore, has been identified as Mrs. Mary Mazzero, 22 years old, of Baltimore. Identification was made by Pansy Parker, a friend, who told Baltimore police that she passed the early part of Thursday night with Mrs. Mazzero at a roadhouse 15 miles from Baltimore.

Probably Hit by Auto.

Miss Parker told Baltimore police that Mrs. Mazzero disappeared during the evening. The next seen of the woman was when her body was found beside the Philadelphia road. She was severely bruised about the neck, legs and back. Coroner Jacob Dallman, of Baltimore, stated that the injuries indicated that the woman had been struck by an automobile and dragged some distance.

The three under arrest are Charles Fillah, 17 years old, and John E. Bostick, 18 years old, both of Tenth street between L and M streets northwest, and Vincent Casey, of Bayard, W. Va. They were arrested early yesterday morning when they alighted from a Baltimore bus in Washington.

Deny Knowledge of Case.

Suspicion was directed at the three when an attendant at a bus station in Baltimore informed police that he had heard one of the men loudly accusing the other two of "knowing something of the murder of a woman on the Philadelphia road." The man who made the charge was later identified as Casey.

Casey told police that he was drunk and this is the only explanation he can give for making the accusations, police said. The other two youths deny any knowledge of the woman's death.

Baltimore police last night accepted as true the alibis of both Fillah and Bostic that at the time of the murder they were on a Harford road line street car in Baltimore, after the automobile in which they were driving to Washington blew out a tire on U. S. Highway No. 1. Their story was substantiated by the street car conductor, Philip Cotter. Police intimated they would be freed today.

Report Shows More Appeals Last Fiscal Year in the Fourth District.

121 CIVIL CASES HANDLED

Richmond, Va., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Business of the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals showed a marked increase during the year ended June 30 over the preceding year, according to a report by Claude M. Dean, clerk, to the Attorney General of the United States.

A total of 162 cases was docketed from the district courts in Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Maryland, comprising the Fourth District, an increase of 40, or about 33 1-3 per cent. Twenty-three of the cases were criminal and 139 civil, compared with 16 criminal and 106 civil during the preceding year.

The court disposed of about 45 per cent more cases, the number being 145 against 103 for the twelve months ended June 30, 1929. Of the 145, there were 24 criminal and 121 civil cases. During the preceding year there were 12 criminal and 91 civil cases.

Eighty-seven cases were affirmed, 48 were reversed and ten dismissed by the court during the last year.

Snare Is Avoided By Counterfeiter

Instead, Roanoke Man Loses $250 and Swindler Makes Getaway.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 1.—T. K. Parsons, Federal attorney for the Western District of Virginia and a resident of Roanoke, together with Federal deputy marshals, came here yesterday in an effort to catch a confidence man who had offered $1,000 of counterfeit bills for $500. The Roanoke man had reported the offer and a trap was set to catch the counterfeiter here.

The man, whose identity Mr. Parsons declines to disclose, met the counterfeiter at an appointed place here and was to get him to another location where he could be arrested.

The confidence man insisted on having the cash first and when given $250 the stranger went out to get the counterfeit currency. That was the last seen of him. Police were put on the case, but after working 24 hours, report no inkling as to the whereabouts of the stranger.

Mr. Barnard, in an announcement, said he will seek election on a platform favoring the repeal of the prohibition amendment and recommending the question to the individual States.

G.O.P. SENATE FIGHT STIRS WEST VIRGINIA

Five Candidates Battle for Nomination at Primary Next Tuesday.

NEELY ONLY DEMOCRAT

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 1.—As West Virginia's primary, which is scheduled for Tuesday, draws near, interest seems to be centered about the fight for the Republican senatorial nomination, with five G. O. P. stalwarts anxious to lead their party in the November election.

The five are Col. James Elwood Jones, multimillionaire coal operator, of Switchback, Pocahontas County; former Gov. Albert B. White, of Parkersburg, now a State senator, Judge Harry Shaw, of Fairmont; C. Lewis Wilson, a business man of Parkersburg, and former Representative Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, of Wheeling.

Backers of Judge Shaw and former Gov. White have centered their fire against Jones, who seems to be favored to win, because he hails from the southern end of the State, which is already represented in the Senate by Dr. Henry Drury Hatfield. They point out also that Jones is not a 100 per cent Republican, having supported several Democrats in State elections.

Mr. Rosenbloom is running on a platform favoring the repeal of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment. He is not attacking any candidate especially in his campaign, but is pointing out that he is the only one of the lot that has been blacklisted by the West Virginia Anti-saloon League.

Col. Jones is appealing to the lectorate on the grounds that it would be advisable to name a business man to head the teket. His friends point out that he is one of the biggest, if not the biggest business man in West Virginia, and believe he would make an ideal senator.

Being the only candidate from southern West Virginia is believe l to make Jones the strongest candidate. It is believed he will run away with his section and get a scattering vote in the northern section. Judge Shaw, Mr. White and Mr. Rosenbloom have considerable following, but it is believed they will divide the anti-Jones vote. Mr. Wilson, the fifth candidate, is a rank outsider and is regarded as hopelessly out of the race.

While the Republicans will be fighting hard next Tuesday, the Democrats are destined to nominate former Senator M. M. Neely, of Fairmont. Neely is the only Democrat elected to the United States Senate by the people, having served from 1923 to 1929 as the result of defeating Senator Howard Sutherland, now Allen Property Custodian, in the 1922 election.

Not one of West Virginia's representatives will have opposition for renomination. The Republicans seem satisfied with Carl G. Bachman, in the First District; Frank L. Bowman, in the Second; John M. Wolverton, in the Third, and Hugh Ike Shott, in the Fifth, while the Democrats are contented with Joe Smith in the Sixth. There is a scramble for the Republican nomination in the Fourth District, which has been without a representative since the death of Representative James A. Hughes. Mrs. Hughes is among several seeking her husband's toga.

Robert L. Ramsey and Camden S. Taney are out for the Democratic nomination in the First District; Jennings Randolph and Joseph V. Gibson seek to oppose Representative Bowman in the Second; William S. O'Brien, former representative; Lynn S. Hornor and H. F. Rymer are anxious to lead the Democrats in the Third; Robert L. Pemberton, F. L. Shriver, George Barton Crow and L. R. Via are coveting the nomination in the Fourth, while T. J. Lilly and L. V. S. Curry are fighting it out in the Fifth.

Besides Mrs. Hughes, John B. Easton and State Senator Robert L. Hogg want the Republican nomination in the Fourth District, while Republicans in the Sixth District who are anxious to run against Democratic Joe Smith are Fred O. Blue, former State tax commissioner; Harold W. Houston and Miss Hattie Stein.

ALEXANDRIA MOTOR MISHAPS INCREASE

POSTOFFICE IS MOVED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.

Of the total number of accidents, eight ooccurred at the intersection of King and Washington streets, this being the intersection of the principal business street of the city and the Washington-Richmond highway, which traverses Washington street.

The police made 331 arrests in July, a decrease of 18 from last month. The leading offenses shown on the police blotter are: Drunk, 69; traffic violations, 47; violation of prohibition ordinance, 36, or for cases connected with the dry law, a total of 105.

Three automobiles were stolen in the city. All were recovered. The police also recovered three automobiles reported stolen from other cities.

There was no interference with the activities of the local postoffice due to the change from the old building to the new quarters on King street, all deliveries being made on time. When the holders of the mail boxes called for their mail yesterday morning they found everything in order, the change having been made during the afternoon and evening of Thursday. The carriers, who sort their mail and make it ready for distribution on the second floor, have the use of an elevator.

The offices of the collector of internal revenue, custom house and United States court were removed yesterday. J. Sid Wiley, collector of customs, is on the third floor, while John P. Strauss, deputy clerk of the United States court, and William S. Schoeni, deputy United States marshal, are on the second floor. James R. Mansfield, collector of customs; Worth Stanton and Charles Nelson, of the internal revenue service, are also on the third floor. Postoffice Inspector Norman E. Simpson is on the first floor, and Postmaster F. Clinton Knight is also on the first floor.

Funeral services for John Metcalf, 68 years old, who died Thursday at his home, 115 Duke street, will be conducted at the residence at 9 o'clock Monday morning by the Rev. William Jackson Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Mr. Metcalf was a native of England is is survived by his wife and one daughter.

Thomas Simpson, 49 years old, of 304 North Pitt street, was fined $33 in police court yesterday on a charge of having in his possession more than 200 milk bottles belonging to the Alderney Green Meadow and Fairfax Dairy Farm, the complainant being Joseph P. Bailey. Simpson denied any intention of wrongdoing, stating that he had collected the bottles with trash he had gathered at various places in the city.

The fine imposed was first $5 and $3 costs, and an additional 50 cents for each bottle, or $122.50. This was subsequently reduced, however, to $33. The arrest was made by Sergt. Heber Thompson and Patrolman Julian Rawlett.

Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of the corporation court, reports that during the month of July he collected for the city in fines from violators of the city prohibition ordinance $1,262, or $111 less than in June. He also collected for the State of Virginia, from taxes on deeds, wills, suits and marriage licenses, $1,009.10.

Police Capt. Campbell has recommended to City Manager Wallace Lawrence that traffic stop signs be placed at these street intersections: Cameron and West streets, Patrick and Cameron streets. Reports made to police headquarters indicate that many traffic accidents have occurred at these intersections.

VIRGINIA WET ENDS BATTLE FOR HOUSE

T. R. Keith, of Fairfax, Asks Dry Referendum in Radio Address.

TARIFF BILL ATTACKED

Stressing the need for a prohibition referendum and a strong adherence to the doctrine of State's rights, Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax, last night in a radio address over station WJSV brought to a close his campaign for the Democratic nomination to Congress from the Eighth Virginia District. The primary will be held Tuesday.

"This prohibition policy, which violated the very fundamentals of our governmental system, was foisted upon us by a combination of political strategy which has not been equaled in the history of our own nation and through the vote of legislative bodies brought about during and just subsequent to the World War and at a time when it was impossible to focus public attention on anything except the war and its attendant results," declared Mr. Keith.

"The people themselves have never given their approval to this policy and have had no opportunity to do so. Every effort to get a referendum on the question has been violently opposed by the advocates of the present system who at the same time proclaim that a large majority of the people favor the continuance of national prohibition. Notwithstanding these claims, throughout the country it is manifest that there is a rising tide of disapproval of the present condition and no one can doubt that the result will be a change in that condition as soon as the people record their honest convictions in regard to it.

"The voters of this district may not realize it, but this is one of the most important campaigns that is being staged in any of the States of the Union. It may result in far-reaching political effects not only in Virginia but in other States.

"The scope and purpose of the Federal Farm Board must be strengthened and enlarged so that it will meet the exigencies of the situation. It was said that when the tariff bill was passed prosperity would again return to this country, but the reverse has been the case and we are today confronting a situation which threatens bankruptcy for untold thousands of business men.

"Another great national problem is the one which relates to our water power sites. Most of the development in this connection has been by private capital and it has been seen that the power monopolies are intent upon absolute control which will enable them to wring from the pockets of the people enormous profits with ruthless disregard of the fact that these natural resources should be developed in the interest of the people."

Corrigansville Bridge Finished.

Corrigansville, Md., Aug. 1.—A celebration was held here this evening to mark the completion of the new concrete bridge over Jennings Run, on the Mount Savage highway. The community joined in the merry-making, with dancing on the program.

Alexandria Rain Plea Is Refused by Pollard

Richmond, Va., August 1 (A.P.).—As the drought stretches from weeks into months, appeals have reached the desk of the Governor of Virginia asking him to call on the people of the State to pray for rain.

One of the numerous requests that Gov. Pollard issue a proclamation for State-wide prayer services asking rain came from the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, signed by Dan S. Hollenga, business manager. The governor explained why he will not issue such a proclamation in his reply to Mr. Hollenga.

"I have a very definite idea that such steps should be taken by religious leaders and not by civil leaders," Gov. Pollard stated. "I have no doubt that the churches throughout the whole State are sending up prayers for rain, but I do not think that I should assume to take the initiative in any matter involving religious devotions."

RAIN GIVES PARTIAL RELIEF IN DROUGHT

Fall Is Inadequate to Save Corn and Apple Crops of Virginia.

HAGERSTOWN AREA DRY

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 1.—The first general rain of the last 52 days and the second of the last 90 fell over a large part of Rockingham County this afternoon, breaking the great drought and giving relief to the many orchards, late corn and soy beans, but coming too late to save the entire corn crop.

The rain was accompanied by a severe electric and hail storm in some portions of the county. Lightning struck a locust tree in the yard of Edward Kennedy at Goods Mill, the bolt passing into the Goods Mill telephone switchboard in the Kennedy home, setting fire to the table and slightly stunning Mrs. Kennedy. The blaze was quickly extinguished. Ten phone lines were burned out.

Water Supply Replenished.

In the Keezletown section, some hail fell with the rain, but it did no damage. It rained steadily in Harrisonburg for nearly an hour, while water fell for a half hour in the mountains where Harrisonburg gets its water supply.

The rain only covered part of the Timberville fruit belt. Between Timberville and Mayland there was a heavy rain, while to the northwest of Timberville the rain was light. Many of the Timberville orchardists have been watering their fruit trees.

Little hope is felt for the summer pasture and fall hay crop. The rain will replenish some of the mountain streams where cattle are suffering from lack of water and living on brush trees. It was declared that it will take a dozen showers like the one today to give adequate relief.

Apple Crop Damaged.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 1 (Special)—That the apple crop of Frederick County would be 250,000 barrels short of the normal production as a result of the prevailing drought was forecast here today by a prominent fruit grower. This means that this county will produce about 500,000 barrels of apples while in normal years the production would be about 750,000 barrels.

In an effort to tide the fruit over until rain, scores of growers, from Timberville, Rockingham County, to Winchester, are pouring thousands of gallons of water on their trees to supply the necessary moisture.

It is a familiar sight to see large crews of men with sprayers transporting water from nearby creeks to the apple orchards. The peach crop is reported as being almost a total failure, with the crop largely culls.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 1 (Special).—Hailstones as large as moth balls fell during a freak thunderstorm at Bridgeport, on the outskirts of here today, but there were so few that not much damage resulted. The rain was negligible and failed to break the drought.

Petersburg Youth Shoots Friend, 13

Accident at First Treated as Superficial Wound; Operation Fails.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 1.—While playing with a 22-caliber rifle Tuesday afternoon, a youth named Miller fatally shot his companion, Fred F. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, of Hopewell. The bullet is said to have entered one side near the abdomen, coming out at the other side.

It is stated that at first it appeared to have been a flesh wound and was treated by physicians accordingly. Yesterday the boy was taken ill and was carried to the Hopewell Hospital, and when an operation was performed it was found that the bullet had in its course entered the abdominal cavity and the case was found to be a hopeless one. Operated upon about 7 o'clock, the lad died at 11 o'clock last night.

Young Smith was 13 years old in May and Miller is said to be about 16 years old. The victim is survived by his parents.

Charles Town Firemen Are Feted in Middleway

Special to The Washington Post.

Middleway, W. Va., Aug. 1.—Citizens of this town entertained at a lawn party last night in honor of the volunteer firemen of Charles Town in appreciation of the fact that some weeks ago the Charles Town firemen and equipment helped control a fire here that burned three buildings and threatened the town.

A large turn-out of citizens of Jefferson County attended the affair.

TODAY TO BE COOLER, IS FORECAST; RAIN LIKELY TOMORROW

July Passes Into History as Hottest 30-Day Period in Weather History.

NORMAL SUMMER HEAT SEEN FROM NOW ON

One Prostration Recorded; Careless Smokers Told of Fire Peril.

Comparatively cool temperatures, but no relief from a drought described as the worst in 40 years, was predicted for Washington and vicinity today. The mercury is not expected to go above 85 during the next few days, the Weather Bureau announced. Sunday will probably be fair with thundershowers in the late afternoon.

As July slipped into history, the bureau announced that the month had been the hottest 30-day period recorded since weather stations were inaugurated. Rainfall in the District during the month was only two and one-half inches, considerably below normal. Crops in nearby Maryland and Virginia have been badly damaged by lack of rain, and forest fires in several sections have threatened large areas of tinder-dry brush.

Heat Overcomes Man.

One heat prostration was recorded in Washington yesterday, when the thermometer registered a maximum of 85 at 3:30 p. m. Ross Leaman, 30, who refused to identify himself further, or to tell his address, fell unconscious at Connecticut avenue and L street northwest and was treated at Emergency Hospital.

While no positive assurance can be given, bureau officials said, it is probable that Washington will experience normal summer weather for a protracted period.

The quarter of an inch of rain that fell Thursday night was not enough to benefit nearby Maryland's low water supply materially, but the sanitary commission expected to increase its supply today through the use of a third emergency connection with the District's water supply. This connection, on Georgia avenue at Silver Spring, was completed late Thursday, but the pressure in the two systems was so nearly equal at that point yesterday that the Maryland system was unable to obtain much water.

Smokers Get Blame.

Chief William M. Burrows, of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department, yesterday issued a warning to careless smokers, who are said to have started a number of fires in wooded areas made particularly inflammable by the drought. Nearly every alarm answered by his company in the last few weeks originated in brush blazes caused by a carelessly tossed cigarette, he said.

"The situation is really so bad," he explained, "that a fire actually burned out a cabbage patch this week. Another fire spread to some oak trees and went up them as if they had been soaked in gasoline."

$37,000 Rum Cargo Ordered Forfeited

U. S. District Court Judge in Norfolk Rules on French Vessel.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The French gas screw vessel Metmuzel with her cargo of whisky valued at approximately $37,000 was ordered forfeited to the Government in a decision handed down by Judge D. Lawrence Groner in Federal District Court today.

Defense attorneys immediately filed notice of appeal. In the meantime the defense will be required to post bond to protect the Government against loss for the time which the Metmuzel will remain tied at her dock at the Coast Guard headquarters.

In handing down the decision Judge Croner is said to have made a new ruling to the effect that a vessel which approaches within the 12-mile limit is within the customs district of the United States and in case she attempts to depart without reporting her cargo, she is subject to forfeiture.

The Metmuzel was captured by Coast Guard patrol boat No. 200 on the night of June 1, at a point near the Paramore Bank gas buoy and within six miles of the Virginia coast.

Bedford Town Manager Will Go to Farmville

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., Aug. 1.—Robert W. Catlin, who has served as town manager of Bedford since 1924, has been elected to the position of manager of the town of Farmville, at a salary of $4,100 per year and the use of an automobile and its upkeep.

Mr. Catlin was elected to the new position by the town council of Farmville without having made application for the place. He will take up his new duties on September 1.

Worms Attack Yachts; Pest Laid to Drought

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 1 (A.P.).—Yacht owners are being made to suffer by the drought hereabouts because of myriad infinitesimal white worms.

Driven from their fresh water habitations, the worms have entered tidal harbors and attached yachts and other pleasure craft lying at anchor. They bore holes in the bottoms of the craft and have made many unsafe. There seems to be nothing that can be done about it.

State Department Asks Apple-Infection Area

(Copyright, 1930.)

The State Department yesterday asked the Department of Agriculture for additional information on the extent of the areas infested by the apple fruit fly, because of which Great Britain recently barred certain types of American apples from importation.

The request was made after a conference between Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, and Assistant Secretary of State Castle.
